

WE NOMINATE

Robert Eugene Kuenne, brilliant 46-year old economist, whose specialty — the development of what are known as "large scale interdependent models" — graphically illustrates how highly theoretical research in the social sciences is linked with some of the basic problems confronting the average citizen and his hard-pressed nation. A recent Washington announcement from Congressman Frank Thompson Jr. reported that Public Health Service funds are enabling Kuenne to carry forward a study aimed at providing a more accurate means of setting hospital charges for health services rendered.

Declining to become embroiled in any way in discussions concerning the mushrooming costs facing hospital patients today, a brutal matter in a country with more than 10 per cent of its population over 65, Kuenne points out: "I am not advocating anything at all in this respect; as an economist I simply want to find out if hospitals can price their services more accurately." In the summer months ahead, for the fourth successive summer under the auspices of the Regional Science Research Institute, Philadelphia, he will complete what he calls a "conceptual framework" and will then conduct a two-year test of his theories at a small general hospital in the East.

If the program proves successful — and indications are that it will be — it will provide hospitals, according to Kuenne, "with a more rational method of pricing services to patients than at present" and will offer hospitals a more precise way of costing the internal operations of their different departments and services. In effect, what Kuenne, a Princetonian for some 15 years, is doing is looking at the hospital as an economic entity, much like an industrial firm, composed of interacting but separable medical and para-medical departments which, together, produce final outputs, or "patient-days of treatment."

The depth and range of Kuenne's interests, and his concentration on the theory of large mathematical abstract systems, are reflected in other usages of input-output models. For his doctoral dissertation at Harvard in the mid-1950's he undertook a projection of the impact of the United States Steel Company's plant at Morrisville, Pa., on the surrounding community, determining how much new employment and output would occur in some 45 Delaware Valley industries. Later, in the field of national security, this former academic consultant to the U.S. Naval War College at Newport, R. I., used mathematical techniques in a study devoted to the "optimal stationing" of Polaris missile submarines.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., Kuenne, a topnotch teacher on both the undergraduate and graduate levels, was graduated with a Bachelor of Journalism degree from the University of Missouri in 1947 but, instead of staying with the Fourth Estate, switched over to economics, taking his bachelor's and master's degrees at Washington University, St. Louis. Following graduate studies at Harvard, where he earned another M.A. as well as his Ph.D., he remained on the Harvard Faculty until 1955 and was teaching at the University of Virginia when called to Princeton in the fall of 1956. The Princeton years have included a three-year appointment as a Bicentennial Preceptor and promotion to full professor a year ago.

For providing proof positive that the so-called "groves of academe" are vitally concerned with the world around them; for tackling head-on problems of significance to the whole complex of modern society; this able transplanted Missourian is our nominee as

TOWN-GOWN
Partnership? Pointing to "a growing estrangement between town and gown," and urging "a more viable partnership" between Princeton and Princeton University, the Rev. C. Shelby Brooks set the key for a four-hour session last Saturday in which both sides of Nassau Street looked at each other, hard.

It was the community joint sponsored by the University and the Council of Community Services. Housing, land use, drugs, employment, transportation — the joint and often conflicting interests of both campus and community in these facets of Princeton life, came under scrutiny.

More than 300 people signed up for the 13 workshops held in the Engineering Quadrangle. A few didn't come, but 31 who hadn't signed up, did, and Community Services staff counted more than 300 in actual attendance. About two thirds were "town," the rest "gown."

Each workshop had a leader and a secretary, and this week, the minutes will begin coming in. Next Wednesday, all discussion leaders will meet to draw the strings together and later, a report will be issued.

How Did It Go? Some groups were so deep in discussion they didn't even break for coffee. More than one group plans to meet again to go on talking and listening.

Some University people felt that the townspeople had nothing but criticism. Some townspeople felt the morning was a waste because "the University" will go on doing just what it will do, anyway.

But Mrs. Nancy Gryzbek, executive director of the Council, is more sanguine. She was delighted in the cooperation the Council received from all levels at the University. And she sees a determination of the part of townspeople not to let things drop.

The Council divided its 300 participants into four work shops on housing and land use; four on drugs; three on youth interaction; two on resources and one each on transportation and unemployment.

One of the housing units can be regarded as a sample of Saturday. The leader was Marvin Bressler, a professor of sociology. Among the 20 participants were John P. Moran, who directs all the University's planning and land use projects; Borough Councilman Charles Cornforth; Seymour Albert, a frequent defender of both town and gown on housing matters; Lewis Kraft, a housing developer; a local Republican district committeeman; a local Democratic district committeewoman; two black townspeople, one young, one a civil rights leader for many years; two bright, articulate men undergraduates.

Across the Lake? Mr. Cornforth promised enthusiastically that the University would build low-middle-income housing for both students and residents, across the canal in West Windsor in the parking field where Hospital Fete's are held.

"If you did that, you could turn back to the town the houses you've bought on streets like University Place. These could be middle-income houses for non-University people. The Borough, you see, is already built up; using the buildings we already have, is the best way to find more middle-income housing."

Mr. Moran smiled rather wilyly at this, and reminded Mr. Cornforth that the University has added a lot of faculty and student housing to the Princeton community already.

He said housing over in West Windsor wouldn't do much to integrate town and gown; the problem should be solved in the community itself.

How About the Future? Professor Bressler then expressed alarm at the whole idea.

"The University MUST keep some land for the future," he exclaimed. "Who, a generation ago, could have foreseen the need for a computer center?"

"You mean that for some unknown use, you're denying land for an URBENT use now?" Mr. Cornforth asked. "Besides it's such a large field we don't want the whole thing!"

New Development. The University hopes to develop a kind of center in this area bounded by McCarter Theatre, the Princeton Inn dormitory, the present railroad station and a group of old warehouses on both University Avenue and Alexander Street.

"We've asked I. M. Pei, the planner, to create a 'community here," Mr. Moran elaborated. "It might possibly have community housing for both students and non-students."

He said the University hopes to go before the new Borough Township Joint Planning Board in April to talk about it.

"The University always wants to form a study committee instead of DOING something!" Mr. Cornforth exclaimed.

"The University wants to create we don't want to contribute to a problem," Mr. Moran replied.

Student Take-Over? In this housing workshop, participants were disturbed because undergraduates are being allowed by the University to sleep out into town and live off-campus.

Mr. Moran confirmed that about 75 undergraduates are now living off-campus.

Mostly, it was argued, they move into low-income areas that may be the only places in town where black residents can get, or afford, an apartment or house.

Asked how far this trend might go, Mr. Moran observed, "The University would be in a rough dollar position with a thousand empty dormitory rooms."

He then assured Mr. Cornforth that he didn't mean to toss out the West Windsor idea, and he reported that the University is studying ideas that might include community housing, "but this doesn't necessarily mean we're going to do it."

New Ideas Needed. Mr. Albert described the Cambridge Development Corporation formed by Harvard and M.I.T., and a town-gown plan worked out in Syracuse, N.Y.

"The University has a responsibility to evaluate this kind of thing," he said, "to examine what's being done and come back to the town with your findings."

Finances. "You're looking through the wrong end of the telescope," Mr. Moran stated. "The way New Jersey finances its local government is the problem."

The bulk of the people won't vote for tax increases to solve problems, he pointed out, suggesting that the most useful thing town and gown could do would be to develop a financial model for the state.

Low-income housing must be subsidized, he pointed out, but if middle-income housing is to be built in the free market, lo-

Milk or a Steu? The composition of the community was also discussed. Should Princeton delicately try to make a mix of race, income, academic status? Some participants wondered whether homogeneous groups weren't better.

Mr. Alpert said heterogeneity is what makes Princeton, and he suggested the University could be responsible for changing the character of the town by allowing students to move into the black area, "which is disappointing."

Mr. Kraft stated that Princeton was already a "golden ghetto" with no houses under $40,000 and not much land left for any kind of housing at all.

Workshop members spoke of the 200 units assigned by the Township Master Plan to middle-income housing. Miss Helen Fairbanks referred to this number scornfully as "peanuts" and Mr. Cornforth agreed.

Miss Fairbanks said the Township should eliminate two-acre zoning. "Half the vacant land in the Township could be used for something—it's a question of whether you want $75,000 homes and nothing else."

If people work here, Miss Fairbanks stated they should have the option of living here. And she added, "you give more to your town who you're a 24-hour citizen than when you just commute."

Joseph Dehner, undergraduate in the class of '70, remonstrated that "these discussions are almost divorcing the town and the campus. How can we ever get together?" He is a member of the Council of the University Community.

"Send your representatives to zoning and planning boards," suggested Mr. George Alexander. "We're more co-operative than it seems."

Both Mr. Moran and Mr. Alpert agreed that priorities were even more important than communication. Mr. Moran, who is involved with regional as well as University planning, warned, "In the next year, the built game will be over in this region."

Summary. After the work shops had met, a round-up session was held and summaries presented from each of the 13 Highlights.

● A floating ombudsman should be hired by the Council of Community Services to listen to complaints, respond to needs and "unleash resources."

● Many people of all ages desperately want to help in the drug problem but have no idea who to turn to, or how to help.

● Proposals to bus workers into Princeton from outlying parking lots—some on University land—are interesting to the University for further discussion.

● The town "must demand" that the University assist its experts to various problems, housing for example.

● The Civil Rights Commission should publicize more freely violations of the discrimination statutes.

"There are so many organizations and experts!" exclaimed William Cook, English teacher at Princeton High who made one of the summaries, at the end of the morning.

"We're in danger of the 'Committee Report Syndrome': if there's a report—the problem is solved!"

HICKEL MEET

In Jadin Gym address. A is often the case in contemporary America, Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel came to the Princeton University campus Thursday and had the news for him. A small but vociferous anti-establishment segment of the Jadin Gymnasium audience chanted continuously during his 35-minute address, and taped broadcasts of the contentious atmosphere generated in Jadin Gymnasium were heard next morning throughout the eastern seaboard.

At one point, President Goheen rose from his seat on the podium to break into Mr. Hickel's speech by informing the demonstrators that they were subject to disciplinary action. Denial of disciplinary evidence taken by University proctors, the expressions of opposition to President Nixon's administration continued unabated.

Some 75 undergraduate and graduate students, many of them wearing Indian paint and feathers to protest U.S. involvement on the warpath, chanted a variety of slogans and occasional obscenities. As soon as Mr. Hickel stepped to the microphone to speak to some 2,000 persons at a two-day conference on "Resources and Politics in America's Environmental Crisis," sounds of "pink, pink" were heard.

To make the thought clearer, the protesters chanted, "Today's pigs, tomorrow's hogs." Nixon and Hickel began start shaking. While President Goheen was promising disciplinary action, the chant changed almost inevitably to "Ho Ho Ho Chi Minh, NLF is going to win!"

Jibes about Mr. Hickel's career as governor of Alaska and about the oil that has disfigured the Santa Barbara area while he has been Secretary of the Interior were added to the almost continuous uproar over which he spoke. A scheduled question-and-answer period at the end of his address was cancelled and replaced by apologies by President Goheen on behalf of the University to Mr. Hickel and the majority of the audience.

As a result of the protest, a score of students will be called before the University Council's Judicial Committee during the coming week. In addition, it is possible that civil action may be brought against those outside the University who took part in the protest.

TOPICS Of The Town

"YES" TO BUDGET

"No" To Water, Borough Council passed the 1970 budget Tuesday night after a public hearing in which mayor and Council were lectured on inflation and the evils of excessive government spending by Mark Jones, Library Place. Mayor Robert W. Cowley reminded Mr. Jones that Council had deliberately held the municipal tax rate "almost static" for several years despite inflation, because the schools faced unavoidable tax increases in those years. "We're now catching up," Mayor Cowley explained, "and we're following a pay-as-you-go policy to avoid high interest rates."

Councilman Charles Cornforth, chairman of finance, suggested that a community standards help set its tax rates, and he cited the Princeton schools' small class size—23 pupils—as a symbol of these standards.

DEDICATION SET: Princeton University's new $17.2 million mathematics-physics-statistics complex, completed after nearly four years of construction, will be dedicated on Tuesday. Building at left, Henry Burchard Fine Hall, houses departments of Mathematics and Statistics. Building at right, Stanley Palmer Jadwin Hall, houses department of Physics. Fine Hall Library, with a capacity of 80,000 volumes, is located under central plaza, and connects two buildings. Rectangular structure at lower left houses 30-million electron-volt cyclotron. William Charles Peyton Hall, upper left, has housed Department of Astrophysical Sciences since its completion in 1956. (Story in Topics of the Town.)

Mr. Cornworth continued, "but we felt that's what Princeton would want, hence the salary increases."

Down the Drain? Council passed, 5-1, a resolution opposing the rate increase request of the Princeton Water Company. The dissenter was Councilman Alice Male who said she felt that service had been "excellent" and that "some increase" was justified.

Princeton Water Company representatives met last Thursday with Council and Town-ship Committee to state their case. Mr. Cornforth reported that the company has acquired 666 new customers—few of them in the Borough—since it became affiliated with the Elizabethtown Water Company in 1972, and has spent $1,610 per customer to lay new mains compared to $200 per new customer before. The last rate increase was in 1953. Councilman Fred Peterson reported that Elizabethtown has 30% of its earnings available to common stock holders. The proposed new rate increase makes Princeton "significantly higher" than the 11 other towns served by Elizabethtown, "and we felt Borough and Township were something being singled out," Mr. Cornforth stated.

The company was scheduled to make its case this Wednesday before the Public Utilities Commission in Trenton. Mayor Cowley urged private citizens to present their views at subsequent hearings. The rate increase must be approved by the PUC before it can take effect.

Council learned that Public Service is also requesting a rate increase in this section of New Jersey. That hearing date hasn't been set.

Snow Job. Council plans to spend $28,575 for street sweeper, two new snowplows, a dump truck, a panel truck and a new sewer section for Olden Lane. All the rolling stock represents replacements. Olden was going to be bonded originally, but Council decided to pay cash.

A resolution was passed providing for reconstruction of Cleveland Lane this spring. The new salary ordinance was introduced and public hearing scheduled for the April meeting. The Borough is still working from the salary scale developed provisionally around 1963. The current version doesn't include major department heads, whose salaries are above those on the scale.

Opposes Private Force. Councilman Robert Hendry stated his opposition to pending state legislation which would allow institutions of higher education to have their own private police force.

Mr. Hendry said the proposal law usurps local police prerogatives and would create a "self interest" by building "alliance" with the institution—Princeton University, for example.

Citing court rulings that municipalities are responsible for damage in street races, he sug-

Parking at "Morven"

To relieve downtown parking, Borough Councilman Charles Cornforth suggested Tuesday night that Council ask the state for the use of blacktop behind "Morven" that holds about 100 cars.

Mr. Cornforth suggested that the Borough might sell all-day parking with a windshield sticker system. People who parked all day in the "Morven" lot would free about 100 parking spaces downtown, which could then be devoted to high-turn over meters, he said.

"Morven" was used as the governor's mansion until the advent of Governor William Cahill, who has said that he probably won't be living there.

gested that if the new law were passed the University might be liable for the acts of SDS members.

Borough and University lawyers and officials have already met in conference on the law and will again, Mr. Hendry said.

The public library, several spokesmen told Council, hopes some of the new parking space next to the library, recently purchased from Public Service can be half-hour stalls for quick visits to the library.

FOUR YEARS LATER. Math-Physics Complex Ready. A dedication ceremony and open house next Tuesday afternoon will mark the formal opening of Princeton University's new mathematics-physics-statistics complex.

In addition, the three academic departments housed in the new complex are scheduling special programs of scientific and historical interest surrounding the ceremony. All are open to the public.

The $17.2 million complex located next to Palmer Memorial Stadium on Washington Road, has been under construction since early 1966. It includes a six-level physics building known as Stanley Palmer Jadwin Hall; a mathematics and statistics building, a Henry Burchard Fine Hall; a mathematics-physics-statistics library which connects the two structures; and a cyclotron facility attached to Jadwin Hall.

Tuesday's dedication ceremony will begin at 1 in Jadwin Gymnasium, a short drive continuing on Next Page

Several students reported that alarms didn't ring at though fire-boxes were pulled. In tests one and two days after the fire, there were no hand-pulled boxes that didn't work. There was no area of the school on the day of the fire, where alarm bells were not ringing. That one circuit, mentioned above, was indeed silent. Dr. Powner says Chief Hussey is now satisfied on this point.

Chief Hussey suggested that Mr. Selz confused the situation by reporting building evacuation over the public-address system. Dr. Powner praised Mr. Selz: "It was excellent judgment: the alarms were ringing, and his voice on the PA system told students this was the real thing, not just a drill."

Some students were led out through a smoke-filled exit. True, Dr. Powner says, but it was a way of getting students outside quickly. They turned back would have been foolish because nobody knew where or how bad the fire was. Other students, elsewhere in the building, were de-toured.

There was little control of students once they were outside. True, says Dr. Powner, but there is no good control system with high-school-age students. Roll-call is meaning-ful. Other students had already left for the day.

Dr. Powner thinks it's more important for teachers to leave the building to check and make sure students have gotten out.

A window on the floor over the fire wouldn't close. True, it has been permanently sealed shut because it's high over a concrete pavement and students had been perching on the window sill. Dr. Powner suggests that it's better to or-der students' everyday safety by leaving the window sealed, and let firemen break it if they have. Chief Hussey doesn't agree. Dr. Powner says: the window is directly above the most accessible spot for a fire-truck.

The parking lot was overcrowded. True. There is no question about this. A teacher and Dr. McPherson. How- ever, says both Dr. Pow- ner, police cannot patrol the high school grounds without passage of a special ordinance. This is now being prepared.

Dr. McPherson said.

Fire-alarms in the high school had been turned off on two days in December. True. There had been so many false alarms that Acting Principal Florence Burke decided to turn the system off. A bell at the Borough Hall police desk.

Miss Burke believed that a stern lecture to the kids about false alarms, plus a cooling-off period when alarms weren't working, would help.

More Flowers
To More People
More Often

... A word about our $1.00 Flower Specials.

It is the nature of the flower business to experience periods of peak production, coupled with slow demand. At such times, growers are faced with the prospect of having their crop of flowers dumped, or selling them in huge quantities below production costs. In doing the latter a grower at least receives some monetary return for his efforts and makes the best of a bad situation. It is this volume buying at distress prices that makes our $1.00 flower possible. We are cooperating in a national effort to move more flowers to more people, more often.

Through our $1.00 weekend flower specials, flower lovers have a unique opportunity to enjoy flowers at nominal cost. You actually get flowers for less than the cost to produce them.

To furnish flowers at these bargain rates must necessarily be a bare bones operation. It is for that reason we do not include greens, will not box, arrange or deliver them. Please do not ask us to do this. We are cash of course.

So popular have our specials become that in one week we distributed over 2000 units. With such favorable customer response we are encouraged to work even harder at securing flower bargains for you. We now regularly receive fresh flowers flown in overnight from the vast flower plantations in Florida, California and more recently Bogota, Columbia. Our regular stock also reflects the international nature of our product. Mimosas from France, Cymbidiums from Hawaii, Proteas from South Africa.

This is really just to thank you for your support in helping us become a leader in floral merchandising. Hopefully you will have a better understanding of why we sometimes have a tremendous selection to choose from - and at other times a limited choice. In any event, remember we always have something in store. Fresh flowers for $1.00 every weekend of the year.

Give someone you love flowers this weekend. Choice of 8 different $1.00 specials this weekend.

JAMES from the new committee. Elected speaker will be Emilio Q. Daddario, U.S. Representative from Connecticut. First Congressional District. Rep. Daddario, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Science, Research and Development, is expected to talk on the future of technological development in the United States.

Princeton President Robert P. Gohren and Dr. Frederick Mohr, President of The Rockefeller University, will also speak at the dedication. Dr. Selz, a former president of the National Academy of Sciences, holds a Princeton Ph.D. in physics and is an alumni trustee of the University.

Following the dedication, the complex will be open to the public. The Department of Physics will also exhibit research and teaching apparatus once used by famed physicist Joseph Henry, a member of the Princeton faculty from 1832 to 1848, a founder and president (1849) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and "the leading American scientist of his day."

Refreshments will be served in several locations around the complex at 3:00 p.m. On Tuesday morning, the Department of Mathematics will sponsor a lecture of more general interest "Thirty Years of the Old Fine Hall," the former home of Princeton Mathematics. To be held in the Woodrow Wilson School Auditorium at 9:30 a.m., the program will include remarks by Dr. Solomon Bochner and Dr. Solomon Lefschetz, both of whom are Henry Burchard Fine Professors of Mathematics, Emeritus, at Princeton; and by Mrs. Agnes F. Henry, assistant to the Chairman of the Department of Mathematics.

The Department of Physics also sponsor two talks of general interest on Tuesday: 3:10-4:30 p.m. presentation in 50 McCosh Hall entitled "Sixty Years of Palmer Physics Laboratory" (the old Physics headquarters) by Dr. Allen G. Reine, Princeton's Class of 1909 Professor of Physics, Emeritus; and a 4:30 p.m. lecture in Alexander Hall entitled "The Future of Physics," by Freeman J. Dyson, a member of the Institute for Advanced Study.

FIRE REPORT

Fire School Officials. A check-list of ways to cope with future school fires was unveiled Monday at a press conference called by officials of the Princeton Regional School system.

Fire procedures are being refined as a result of the Princeton High School fire on Thursday, February 5, and subsequent public questions about safety and procedure.

Dr. Henry Powner, who was elected to the school board on two days before the fire, conducted the press session. Highlights:

- Twice-monthly fire drills will continue to be held. At fire drills, an actual checklist will be followed, to include such items as "Did Borough Hall hear the all-clear?" "Did anyone pass a hall alarm bell that wasn't ringing?" People could be asked to listen for individual alarm bells in halls.
- Drills may include practice in following alternate routes inside the building. If, during a drill, a line of students passes a sign reading "This is location of fire," the line would make a detour along a pre-arranged alternate route to the outside.

One person in the building who is completely familiar with alarm system and its complexities, is a necessity, school officials feel. At Princeton High, J. Alfred Selz, assistant principal and former teacher of industrial arts, has already been assigned to this position.

In each of the other schools, a similar key person will be appointed, Dr. Powner said.

Inspection by firemen should occur more frequently than the once-a-year schedule that has been followed for years.

Spot checks of the fire-alarm system might be made. Dr. Powner believes it is "too much to ask of a volunteer fire department" to make elaborate inspections of the fire detection system. One test, for example, has 600 in- dividual heat detectors.

"Response Was Good." "The response of the high school to the fire was good," Dr. Powner declared, "kids were evacuated promptly, nobody was hurt, property damage was minimal. We learned a lot: our errors, for the most part, are now corrected, others are being worked on with the cooperation of the fire department and Chief (William) Hussey."

Dr. Powner described the technical workings of the Princeton High School alarm system and its hook-up with Borough Hall, in great detail, leaving the impression that the whole system may be too refined and sophisticated for its own good.

Yet is can malfunction in the simplest, household kind of way. For example, a signal-light bulb in Borough Hall was burned out but ringing "trouble" bell in Borough Hall was loud and audible; a battery-operated alarm system in a high school basement, had a dead battery. But that system was only designed to trigger a warning bell if the power should fail.

As of today, the system is functioning, except for one series of bells which doesn't ring. The school's electrician, John P. Servis, is still trying to trace this circuit. Dr. Powner said and workmen may have triggered this Monday's false alarm. He said this particular circuit was added to the basic system in 1967.

Replying to school officials' observations on the February fire made by Chief Hussey in a letter to Dr. Philip H. McPherson, superintendent of schools, Dr. Downer said.

Several students reported that alarms didn't ring at though fire-boxes were pulled. In tests one and two days after the fire, there were no hand-pulled boxes that didn't work. There was no area of the school on the day of the fire, where alarm bells were not ringing. That one circuit, mentioned above, was indeed silent. Dr. Powner says Chief Hussey is now satisfied on this point.

Chief Hussey suggested that Mr. Selz confused the situation by reporting building evacuation over the public-address system. Dr. Powner praised Mr. Selz: "It was excellent judgment: the alarms were ringing, and his voice on the PA system told students this was the real thing, not just a drill."

Some students were led out through a smoke-filled exit. True, Dr. Powner says, but it was a way of getting students outside quickly. They turned back would have been foolish because nobody knew where or how bad the fire was. Other students, elsewhere in the building, were de-toured.

There was little control of students once they were outside. True, says Dr. Powner, but there is no good control system with high-school-age students. Roll-call is meaning-ful. Other students had already left for the day.

Dr. Powner thinks it's more important for teachers to leave the building to check and make sure students have gotten out.

A window on the floor over the fire wouldn't close. True, it has been permanently sealed shut because it's high over a concrete pavement and students had been perching on the window sill. Dr. Powner suggests that it's better to or-der students' everyday safety by leaving the window sealed, and let firemen break it if they have. Chief Hussey doesn't agree. Dr. Powner says: the window is directly above the most accessible spot for a fire-truck.

The parking lot was overcrowded. True. There is no question about this. A teacher and Dr. McPherson. How- ever, says both Dr. Pow- ner, police cannot patrol the high school grounds without passage of a special ordinance. This is now being prepared.

Dr. McPherson said.

Fire-alarms in the high school had been turned off on two days in December. True. There had been so many false alarms that Acting Principal Florence Burke decided to turn the system off. A bell at the Borough Hall police desk.

Miss Burke believed that a stern lecture to the kids about false alarms, plus a cooling-off period when alarms weren't working, would help.

WELCOME TO THE FORCE. David S. Lewis 34, 21, is welcomed by Chief Peter J. McGrohan as the newest member of the Borough police department. working, might he'll solve the problem," Dr. Powner says, adding that Chief Hussey does not agree with Miss Burke's action.

William Brooks, credited with discovering the fire, was criticized for running past pull boxes to call police from the high school office. Dr. Powner explains that he was running to call police on the hot line, to tell them it wasn't another false alarm.

Dr. Powner said that the company that installed the fire detection system doesn't feel responsible for its malfunction. The school board is now looking for an electrical contractor who is an expert in all kinds of fire alarm systems.

STUDENTS SPEAK

On Fire, Princeton High's Student Council, in a resolution of thanks to everyone who helped during the fire, asked that Chief Hussey be invited to inspect the building and make recommendations which school officials would implement.

They suggested that: various members of faculty and student body be trained in the use of fire-fighting apparatus; all areas required for emergency vehicles be kept clear; fire drills be held frequently; the fire system be kept "up to date"; an assembly on fire prevention be held during school hours.

THREE ARE JAILED

For Post Office Theft. Township police have charged two Princeton residents and a 17-year-old Borough juvenile in connection with the robbery February 28 at the U.S. Postal station in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Clement Jackson, 21, 2715 Lehigh Avenue, has been charged by Detective Samuel Bianco with breaking and entering, larceny and possession of stolen property; also charged with breaking and entering and larceny are Douglas Griggs, 20, 16 Berrien Court, and the juvenile.

All are presently in Mercer County Jail in default of bail, awaiting an arraignment scheduled for March 18. Bail for Jackson was set at $6,250 and $6,000 for Griggs by Judge Burton Peskin.

The arrests were the result of a combined investigation conducted by Detectives Norman Servis, Anthony Pinelli and Bianco of the Township and U.S. postal inspectors. Federal charges are pending. Detective Bianco said.

Armed with a search warrant, police went to Jackson's home and found 819 of 882 money orders that had been stolen from the postal station, a money order validating machine and "just about all" of the $2,096 in stamps that had been stolen. A 375-pound safe that had been carried away in the theft was found broken open behind Forer's Pharmacy on Witherspoon Street by Detective Servis and Detective Robert McAvella of the Borough police. The search warrant for Griggs' home was carried out by Det. McAvella.

The juvenile and William G. Marshall, 20, of Clay Street, were apprehended in Trenton a week after the break in, trying to cash money orders that had been stolen in the postal theft here. Marshall was arrested in a men's store on Broad Street by Trenton police. Five more of the stolen money orders were found in Marshall's overcoat pocket.

According to police, Marshall admitted he knew they were stolen. He told police that he had obtained them from a relative of his in Princeton.

Marshall was charged with possession of stolen property and attempting to cash worthless money orders. He was held for grand jury action under $5,000 bail.

As police were questioning Marshall, the juvenile entered the same clothing store and attempted to cash a money order from the same stolen series.

SHEEHAN WINS

Can Build Offices. Timothy J. Sheehan can go ahead with the office building he has started on the corner of Nassau and Markham.

The three judges of the Appellate Division of Superior Court ruled unanimously this week that the Borough has to give back to Mr. Sheehan the building permit that was cancelled in the fall of 1968.

Because the decision was unanimous, the Borough has no inherent right of appeal to the State Supreme Court. Borough attorney Gordon Griffin says the legal issue involved was "important enough for a special request that the Supreme Court consider the case."

Mr. Sheehan's permit was cancelled under a clause in the new (1968) Borough zoning law which wiped out existing permits unless construction was substantially under way by the publication date of the new ordinance.

What the Borough hoped to do, was preserve the light industrial residential area in Nassau-Markham area and keep out big office buildings and other B2 zone business uses.

Mr. Sheehan began to build anyway, and Judge Frank Kneifeld of Superior Court ruled last June that he was entitled to have his permit back because he'd gone ahead with construction work under the permit. It was this ruling that was upheld by the Appellate judges.

However, the Appellate Court in this week's decision warned Mr. Sheehan about the height. —Continued on Page 11

BIG SOUND . . .

From Big Band. A big band — "big" defined as 16-piece — will play Alexander Hall this Friday (8:30 p.m.) at McCarter Theatre's "Spring Rock Special."

It's The Prospective Sound, founded three years ago by Senior Bill Hershey when he was Freshman Bill Hershey. His musicians come, now as they did then, from the Princeton University Orchestra, the University's Concert Band, Triangle Club and various soloists from the music department.

It's the largest student-organized band, Mr. Hershey says, and it gives instrumentalists a chance to work together just for fun — or for their "musical edification" — while entertaining dancers and listeners at the same time.

The Prospective Sound dips into the repertoire of the long-ago Swing era, the jazz of the late 1940s and the big-band rock hits of the 60's decade. The "Sound" believes that "this wide spectrum of musical styles pleases audiences of all ages . . . the language of music from different eras helps bridge the gap between the age-groups of those eras."

Friday's concert will be taped by the H.H. Hagers Recording Company of Princeton, and the tapes will re-appear as an album of the concert.

NEW WORK ON PROGRAM
Of Alvin Ailey. A new work and a highly-acclaimed favorite will both be on the program when Alvin Ailey comes to McCarter with his American Dance Theatre this Sunday at 3 p.m.

Tickets are on sale at the box-office. This is the third event in the annual Dance Series, sponsored jointly by McCarter and the Princeton Ballet Society.

The new work is Ailey's "Masakela Language," based on the music of the South African trumpeter Hugh Masakela, and danced in premiere last fall in New York.

Ailey's most famous work, "Revelations," which employs Negro Spirituals, will also be on the program. The afternoon will open with Joyce Trisler's "Dance for Six," set to music of Vivaldi.

A Low Bow to "The Mikado"

A simple, splendid evening inaugurated what one hopes will be a long list of productions by the Gilbert and Sullivan Association at the handsome Allan P. Kirby Arts Center of Lawrenceville School on March 1. The superbly staged production of "The Mikado," or the Town of Titipu, was full of perfect fatuity, innuendo, and silliness. In other words, it was precisely what we need to see more often.

Who doesn't know the story or the music? A returning lover, a bumbling executioner, a pompous minister of state, a lovely Japanese schoolgirl. . . . My object all sublime, I shall achieve in time . . . to let the punishment fit the crime, the punishment fit the crime. . . . Oh, ya-tum-tadada-tum-tadum . . . A totally infectious, frothy time, a heavy ending, profuse applause.

And applause is precisely right for all involved, chiefly the absurd and picaresque, ankersneeze-carrying Ko-Ko, playing with aplomb and artful coyness by Lee H. Bristol Jr. Mr. Bristol's pained tones and distracted, satirical grimaces rigidly dominated the evening.

He was matched by Thomas Van Vranken, the staid and somewhat stodgy Lord High You-Name-It, a man "born sneering" in a ping-pong sneering, grinning Van Vranken is surprisingly young, and he sang with admirable clarity.

"A Real Menace." The lovers, played with appropriate insipidity by John McLean and Sharon Dundore, provided fairly straight roles by which the more crooked characters gained prominence, and they sang well. Diane Curry, as Katisha, was a real menace, which is to say she was clearly excellent, with Mr. Bristol and Mr. Van Vranken. Miss Curry was one of the most successful role-creators (and I think this is the challenge of Gilbert and Sullivan) of the evening. George H. Gallup Jr. and Paul Brown Jr. supported the entire show well. Mr. Gallup, the Mikado, evaded just the right kind of awkward merciless cunning without being bad-natured about it.

Ah, but they all were fine, all of them: the chorus of noble gentlemen of Japan, the little chorus of school-girls trotting about on their tiny feet, the superb orchestra directed by David Adler, the line singing by Monroe Wade, and the stunningly simple sets by Hunter Newell. It was indeed a good time.

Gilbert and Sullivan productions have always struck me as the sort of shows I would like to be in, had I only a modicum of talent. Alas, I am no Savoyard. But my sincere hope is that Gilbert and Sullivan can be nobly undone if the Gilbert and Sullivan Society continues what it has so successfully and professionally begun, for this production was eminently enjoyable and should set a high standard for a long and productive life.

"No Strings" Package of Talent

If you missed "No Strings" last weekend at Princeton High, you missed a fresh and happy evening full of young talent.

The Richard Rodgers musical served chiefly to show off two PHS assets: Linda Lockhart, and the PHS stage hand under Jack Horner. Miss Lockhart is a slim, very nice, lovely young gal who has a voice of astonishing professionalism, considering at youth. And the instrumentalists played the Rodgers score with the skill and aplomb of a Broadway pit band.

You'll remember "No Strings" — a musical with no particular plot, which had a part written especially for Duane Carroll. Miss Lockhart plays this role, that of a Harlem-born girl who is now the highest-paid model in Paris. There's a footloose young American writer (Dan Schay) who wrote a Pulitzer-prize book some years back, but can't seem to get started again.

Miss Lockhart's voice is beautiful enough to put a shiver in a relatively quiet song like "The Sweetest Sounds" — a better-remembered song like "You Don't Tell Me." She is at ease when she sings (even on an opening night), and she's got the potential to do quite a bit with her voice.

Mr. Schay has a pleasing voice and manner, too, but doesn't seem quite so sure of himself vocally as Miss Lockhart. In this "No Strings" production, which has to cope with the unspeakable acoustics of the PHS auditorium, Director Don Evans has shrewdly cast a couple of PHS students as make girls. Dressed in mini-skirts and jerseys, they stand quietly at the sides between numbers, coming forward to hand a mike to anybody about to sing. Works fine.

A girl who's the highest-paid model to Paris gets to wear clothes. And of course she has friends who wear clothes, too. The program says that Miss Lockhart's clothes were designed by Estelle Brown, but whether she did all the rest, we aren't sure.

All we can say is, she has an eye for color and line: a brown wet vinyl maxi . . . a yellow-gold satin culottes . . . a special chiffon gown of flame, cocoa and cream, all are extravagantly becoming to Miss Lockhart.

Other women in the cast are equally lucky, in the wardrobe department, although they may not get to change clothes quite so often.

Mr. Evans, the director, likes to mix students and faculty in his productions, and in "No Strings" he has Joyce Hamilton, a kindergarten teacher at Little Brook, as Mollie, the girl from Vogue; Robert Arneson, PHS chemistry teacher who heats up a French accent on the Bunsen burner to play Louis ("that lecherous old man . . ."); and who should appear in a cameo part but Frank Soda, Dean of the Faculty, passing unobtrusively among the guests as a waiter. Superb performance.

Mr. Soda, who has a certain acquaintance with languages, may have been responsible for the delightful French that came out of Jim Perkins as Luc, and Marthe Rowen as Jeannette.

Jennie Clark is nicely cast as Comfort, the horny babe from Oklahoma with a bankroll wide as the prairie.

Sets leave the stage as bare as possible, the lighting fixtures serving as a reminder that models work in a photographer's studio. Ted Woods, formerly resident designer at Rider brings stagehands out to hook panels from a red when he wants in take us to the streets of Paris or to a Riviera party.

The exuberant dancing, directed by Carol Winburn, symbolizes the talent, nerve and snap of this youthful company.

SIGN UP NOW For Teen Arts Festival. Deadline is March 31 for New Jersey teens, age 13-19, to register for the Teen Arts Festival Preview to be held May 12-13-14.

The Preview will be held at McCarter Theatre and at the State Museum in Trenton, and will serve as an early start for the giant state-wide Teen Arts Festival to be held in May of 1971.

All teens are eligible to enter original or interpretative works in drama, film, music, dance, painting, sculpture, photography, poetry, prose, graphics, multi-media and the crafts.

Application information has been sent to all schools whose pupils are in the 13-19 age range. Registration forms are available through McCarter Theatre (921-8388, ask for Mrs. McGrath) and must be returned by March 31.

Selected works from entries in the performing arts, will be given at McCarter and the State Museum. Crafts and visual art work will be displayed at both these locations and at State Colleges. The Museum's

ACTORS COMING

From Intercollegiate Company, "Theatron," a new intercollegiate touring company, will play Murray Theatre this Saturday, offering Brecht's "A Man's A Man" at a 2:30 matinee and 8:30 evening performance.

Theatre Intime and Woodrow Wilson College are jointly sponsoring Theatron's appearance.

The cast includes actors

from Wellesley, Harvard, Yale and Emerson, among others, and the Princeton stop is part of a tour that has visited Wellesley, Harvard and Yale campuses.

Tickets, at $1.50 for the matinee and $2 for the evening, may be reserved by calling Theatre Intime. 452-8181.

Theatron is using Eric Bentley's adaptation of Brecht's German script, and music written by Bradley M. Burg (Princeton, '65) for the production given in Princeton in 1955.

"We chose 'A Man's A Man' for our opening production," says Michael Zeilik, executive producer (Princeton, '68) because it is by an established playwright, is entertaining for both audience and cast and involves theatre: song, dance, music and simple sets and lighting, integrated and balanced.

The set, by the way, consists of inflatable plastic bubbles held up by a continuous stream of air provided by ordinary electric fans.

INTRODUCING "THE ARTISAN" and its owner-director, Mrs. Shirley Claman, at Sunday afternoon's preview of Princeton's newest gallery, located at 30 Witherspoon Street.

IT'S NEW
To Us

SEE THE ECLIPSE

At The Artisan. If you missed the eclipse of the sun on Saturday, you can see it in wood at The Artisan, a new shop that opened this week at 30 Witherspoon Street, next to King's Court. It's Herman Holzman's free-form sculpture that takes advantage of four tones of black walnut and a tantalizing inter-play of light.

The Artisan is an outpouring of Shirley Claman's involvement in art. A watercolorist herself, Mrs. Claman has gathered together the allied arts — pottery, weaving, stitching, handcrafted jewelry and blended them with a gallery of paintings, graphics and sculpture in a most comfortable way.

"I'm trying to accomplish a showing of the crafts as well as paintings and graphics," Mrs. Claman said at Sunday's preview. "I feel the combination adds interest — one enhances the other —."

The Artisan has great simplicity — neutral walls, a blue-green rug and a touch of wood paneling. And all around the walls you will see the work of artists who share Mrs. Claman's obvious and joyous love of clear, clean color.

There's Janet Sindley's abstract — a tone poem in the red spectrum, flecked with white and with black. And a pensive series in blue signed "Elis V." (Velkovsky), who is a sculptor as well as a painter.

Pottery pieces by Nadine Weiss have a high-fired glaze, often given a matte finish that is gentle to the eye. And Bernice Fazio is represented by a tranquil study of golden fruit overflowing a supermarket container. It is a small oil painting, filled with warmth.

Since we're all inclined to be somewhat snobbed by the publicists of the major city galleries, you have a pleasurable insight into the number of highly gifted painters who live and work in this area when you realize that Janet Sindley is a Belle Mead resident, as is Mrs. Claman; Bernice Fazio is from Somerville, and "Elis V." from Princeton.

Also from Princeton, and represented at the Artisan, are Margaret Kennard Johnson of Snowden Lane and her daughter Lonnie Sue, Mrs. Johnson, a former student of Josef Albers, has moved away from his Bauhaus lineage to a marvelous love affair with color and textures. You will see several very different aspects of her work. Her daughter, a 1969 graduate of Princeton High School, is now a sophomore at the University of Michigan.

Helen S. Rose, known for her weavings and botika, is represented by a wall hanging in silks and starchery; a most imposing hooked rug design titled "Winter Sun" in blues and greens focused on a subdued gleam of yellow, and by a delightful oil painting of a girl in warm reds and oranges.

The Artisan manages to display a great deal of art work without seeming crowded. We saw paintings by E. Little, a Canadian transplanted to Princeton Junction; Gerald Laing, a graduate of both Sandhurst and St. Martin's School of Art in London; Mary Liz Johnston of Belle Mead; Ruth Sharon, Biff Heins, a basically self-taught artist; Enique Castro-Cid.

Nannie Barnes of Philadelphia is represented by several ceramics pieces. There is also the fluid sculpture of Hamilton Reed Armstrong. And the jewelry that Mrs. Claman has chosen to exhibit is by Arthur and Paula Nagy — paneled links for your wrist, or a shield-shaped pin — or a slim, brave swoop of silver for your ears.

The Artisan is open Mondays through Saturdays from 10 to 5:30. The prices are moderate, in the main, and it is quite likely that you may find here the painting or sculpture or a handcrafted piece that will delight you every time you look at it.

TALK ABOUT ANTIQUES: The Wellesley Club will have more than 30 dealers from points all over the Eastern Seaboard at next weekend's show at Princeton Day School. Above, with items from the Bernard Cooke Associates' exhibit are (left) Mrs. George L. Mettler Jr., co-chairman of the exhibitors' committee; Mrs. Ernest H. Winter Jr., publicity committee, and Mrs. Erling Dorf, co-chairman of the refreshments committee.

It's New To Us

Saturday, March 1921 at Princeton Day School, The Great Road.

The theme this year is "Traditions of East and West," with Mrs. E. McClung Fleming, a ceramics specialist at the Winterthur Museum speaking on "The China Trade and the Young American Nation" on Friday, March 20, at 11.

"Carpets from the Near East" will be discussed by Richard Edlinghausen of the Institute for Advanced Study and consultative chairman of the Metropolitan Museum's department of Islamic art. A Princeton resident, Dr. Edlinghausen is widely known as an authority on the ceramics and miniature painting of the Near East as well as on carpets from the Near East. He will speak on Friday, March 20, at 8:15 p.m.

Larry Benzec of Kale's Nursery has designed a Japanese garden for the center exhibit. The two part display consists of a mount garden with a small path leading to a gate, and the terrace beyond. Hours of the antique show are noon until 10 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, and noon until 5 on the closing day.

The Princeton Antiques Show has come to serve — in a most delightful way — two purposes: an opportunity to buy or browse among antiques brought from other areas by distinguished dealers, as well as contributing to the development of Wellesley College and to the May Margaret Fine School Scholarship Fund. Since the initial show in 1960 more than $36,000 has been sent to the College.

Mrs. Walter G. Gibson and Mrs. Gordon R. Nanger, the general chairmen, and their committee have assembled 30 antiques exhibitors by dealers from the New England and Middle Atlantic States, many of whom are returning for the sixth and seventh times.

Elizabeth Tukey of Princeton will include among her pieces a Hepplewhite mahogany card table with a bell-flower inlay, made in Salem, Mass., in 1790 — and a pair of Chinese octagonal garden seats in 18th century porcelain. Laura Reinhard of Washington, D.C., is a specialist in old prints and maps. Her exhibit will include some rare sea charts that show the routes from Europe to the New World, dating from the late 17th century. Some are illustrated with ships and sea monsters.

Hobart House of Haddam, Conn., will bring two groups of American serving pieces with the theme of the show on them: the basket of flowers used by silversmiths and furniture makers in the early 19th century. The Steekens of Windham, Conn., specialists in American 18th and early 19th century furniture, will also offer an assortment of oriental porcelain, pictures and wood carvings as well as a small hatch cupboard and a set of fan-back Windsor sidechairs in the original paints.

Other dealers will bring the largest variety of antiques presented in the history of the show, ranging from the Deolger's Antiques of Shrewsbury Louis XV marquetry desk, Bernard Booke's interior design, David Clark's French provincial grandfather's clock, to Craig Miller's enormous variety of pieces including Sheraton, Chippendale and Queen Anne furniture.

A lunch of hot soup, assorted sandwiches and homemade pastries will be served from noon until 2:30. Tea and snacks will be available until 5:30. Admission to the show is $2; or $1.50 if you send a check in advance to The Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey, 7 Van Kirk Road, Princeton.

1900'S AND RAGTIME
"Turn of the Century," Max Marston's comic show, "An Evening at the Turn of the Century" will play McCarter on a one night stand Monday, March 30 at 8:30. Tickets are now on sale.
Murphy's off-Broadway show was one of last season's hits. He's been on Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin, the Kraft Music Hall and Today, and is regarded as the country's top expert on ragtime and the urban folk-music of the "turn of the century."
The "Evening" is not really nostalgic, critics say. One observed that "he gives us adroit showmanship and music which is qualified to stand up without sentimental crutches. He makes the generation gap seem little more than a puddle jump."

"BELLE DE JOUR"
Tuesday, Luis Buñuel's 1968 film "Belle de Jour" will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday at 8 p.m. as part of the International Film Series.
Catherine Deneuve stars as the neurotic wife who can only feel worthy of her husband's love through her own degradation, and slips out of the house every afternoon to serve as a prostitute in the friendly neighborhood brothel.

SCOUTS SPONSOR "TIGER"
Pennington Players in Production. Friday evening the Girl Scouts of Troop 25 will produce "The Kingdom of the Tiger," at the Fellowship Hall of Covenant Presbyterian Church, Trenton. This will be the only Evening Township performance of the play by members of the Pennington Players.

FUNNY GIRL, starring Barbra Streisand, moves from the Playhouse to the Garden Theatre this week.

Children's Theater.
Tickets, at 50c for children and 75c for adults, are available from members of Troop 25 or at the door. The performance will be at 7:30, and the church is located at Parkway and Parkside Avenues in Trenton.

GARDEN
Funny Girl (now playing). The story of Fanny Brice and gambler-confidence man Nick Arnstein provides the framework for "Funny Girl," but the film's raison d'être is as a vehicle for the exploitation of Barbra Streisand's considerable talents.
The film is color and costume-keyed so that the eye is always focused on Barbra. It is the measure of her artistry that she is able to hold center stage for over 2½ hours and keep the audience hanging on every note and every line.
Omara Sharif, miscast in his role as the gambler with a Park Avenue Jewish background, has a talent for making the love scenes turn out a bit sticky. Miss Streisand always seems to react to Sharif with a rising inflection.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE
Tell Them Willie Boy Was Here (now playing) is a beautifully fashioned, complex drama that will particularly appeal to young adults.

The director and writer of the screen story (based on Harry Lawton's book, "Willie Boy," by Abraham Polonsky) who was blacklisted in the McCarthy era and has not worked in films under his own name since 1949 with the exception of the script for "Madigan." His only previous directing stint was "Rance of Evil," a John Garfield starrer which is highly esteemed by film buffs.

A western in locale and character types only, "Willie Boy" tells the story of two pairs of ill-starred lovers—the Indian couple who are victims of hostility against their race, and the white pair who represent different and antagonistic levels of society. The film is peppered with film buffs.

Characterizations are won-derfully drawn—Robert Redford gives a beautiful, understated portrayal of sheriff Cooper, who personifies the strong, silent western man of action. Robert Blake's performance as Willie Boy is memorable for the intensity with which he copulizes the vanishing of his race by the white man. Susan Clark is splendid as the lady doctor from Boston who enjoys to the hilt her masculine role as superintendent of the Indian reservation. Katherine Ross breathes life and vigor into the relatively minor role of the Indian girl, Lola.

Basically, the film deals with the ambivalence, inequities, and primitivism inherent in the American culture. Photographed in somber muted colors which suddenly sharpened at the moment of confrontation between Indian and sheriff, the film has beautiful shots of the western landscape. With no objectionable sex scenes, and a minimum of violence, Willie Boy should appeal to all levels.

of the concrete slab he has already laid over the parking garage that underlie his building.
The Borough claims this height violates the old and new zoning ordinances and the court wants that the Borough's building in a place to (Bernard Glover) make Mr. Sheehan an occupancy permit for the office building. Mr. Sheehan's lawyer, says the court, "at his peril."
The court decided this slab issue required expert testimony and would be better heard as a separate issue. So Mr. Sheehan and the Borough may be back in court again.

In a related matter, Mr. Sheehan is scheduled to meet the Borough in another kind of court action. Donald Harney, Borough engineer has filed a complaint against Mr. Sheehan charging failure to construct temporary sidewalks around the building site.
That case will be held next Wednesday, March 18, before Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Parnes. It was originally scheduled on February 18, but Mr. Sheehan asked for, and was granted, a delay.

HOSPITAL PARKING?
Overall Plan Asked. Princeton Hospital has been told by the Joint Planning Board to present an overall parking plan instead of a plan that dribbles in drop by drop.

The request was made at the board's March meeting after the hospital submitted a sketch for about a dozen parking places near the corner of Henry and Witherspoon. That sketch was rejected. It hadn't been prepared in accordance with the Township's site plan ordinance—no buildings were shown, for example, and the applicant's name had been omitted—and the board felt that it was merely a piece of the overall picture.

No one appeared before the board to represent the hospital, apparently because of misunderstanding about close scheduling. The site plan review board had met only a few days before and the hospital hadn't been told that the plan would come before the full planning board.
Future site plan meetings will be scheduled far enough ahead of the regular planning board meetings so that applicants can be informed.

In other business, the board approved site plan recommendations for the new building of office building on Route 206 south of Nini Pirmouth. Mr. Buccini has agreed to widen part of 206 and to install curbs. The building will have a single exit entrance on 206.

YWCA SUES STATE
On Abortion Laws. Princeton's YWCA filed suit in Federal Court, Newark, last Thursday, in a challenge to the constitutionality of New Jersey's abortion laws.

The YWCA was one of two organizations—the other is the state chapter of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom—who joined with 11 individuals in the suit. Most of the individual plaintiffs are gynecologists, obstetricians or pediatricians.

Action by the Princeton YWCA followed a unanimous "yes" vote by the organization's 30-member board of directors. The action was recommended by the Y's Abortion Law Reform Committee, whose chairman is Mrs. Eugene Krasnow, 210 Hamilton Avenue.
Other members of the group's steering committee are Mrs. Fred C. Allen, Mrs. Jack Ward, Mrs. Robert Bergman, Mrs. Anthony Dele and Mrs. William Selden.

The suit was a sequel to the introduction last Monday of the abortion bill, which was sponsored by Assemblyman William M. Crone, Bergen County Republican.

Civic Association Founded in Princeton Junction

The founding of the Princeton Junction Neighborhood Association was announced this week after an initial enrollment drive netted 200 memberships within seven days. The PJNA is designed to "provide an efficient means of communication among people of the area and to give them an effective voice in matters of common concern."

Individual directors of the PJNA represent the several logical concentrations of population in the Princeton Junction community. Each representative will help transmit information on vital matters to residents in his area, and will in turn become alert to the residents' views and concerns as they become better informed and more involved in current and future considerations.

Five officers have been elected by the board of directors to serve until March 1971: Newton E. Godrick, president; Arthur Kahn, vice-president; Theodore Linn, corresponding secretary; Walter Brown, recording secretary; and Mrs. Marion Kullback, treasurer. The other eight directors are Mrs. Almynda Prickett, David Davis, David Singer, Lee Tagliaferri, Robert Touchberry, Joseph Wasilewski, William Watt and Lloyd Wertz.

A citizen's advisory committee is also being formed. Anyone seeking more information may address inquiries to P.J.N.A., Box 93, Princeton Junction, N.J. 08550.

WALLETS RIFLED

While Owners Jog. Jogging proved to be an expensive experience for two Princeton men last week.

Gerald E. Degnen and Elliot Kaufman, both of the Lawrence Apartments, Princeton, under stress, parked their cars on S. Harrison Street Saturday near the town path to jog. They left their trunks containing their wallets locked inside.

When they returned a half hour later at 6 p.m., they discovered a view window in each car had been forced open. Mr. Degnen told Township police that $20 had been taken from his wallet, and Mr. Kaufman reported $5 missing from his.

Mrs. Sheldon Rothblatt, Marie Apartments, Facility Road, was the victim of a wallet theft Thursday while she was shopping in the A&P in the Princeton Shopping Center. She told police that she had gone to a counter and left her pocketbook behind. When she returned moments later, her wallet containing $37 was missing from her purse. The theft took place between 9 and 9:15 a.m.

Two in Borough. Borough police reported to a wallet taken on Thursday in separate incidents.

At 5:15 p.m., Gloria M. Kendrick of Hightstown called to report that her wallet containing $15 and three blank checks had been stolen from her purse in Room 245 at the 20 Nassau Street Building.

It was found in a second floor men's room three hours later. The checks were still missing, police said.

Between 7:30 and 9:15 that evening while Fred M. Blachner and his wife were dining at the Nassau Inn, someone rammed their car in a Palmer Square lot off John Street.

Mrs. Blachner's red wallet containing $5 was taken, police said. The car was unlocked. Mr. Blachner is president of Palmer Square, Inc.

MISSING PERSON FOUND. Police Return Bust. For the past two years, Charles MacVeagh Jr. has been missing from the Graduate College—his bust, that is. The real Charles MacVeagh was last February 20, 1920, on Mount Mansfield in New Hampshire when he was 16.

A marble bust valued at $5,000 of Mr. MacVeagh had been on loan to the Graduate College from the University Museum. Borough police say they never received a report of its theft two years ago.

Last week, Edward Grant, owner of rooming house at 181 Witherspoon Street, brought the 18-inch bust into police headquarters. He said that it had been in a closet at 181 Witherspoon for over a year. "We had some time convincing the Graduate College we had it," said Chief Peter J. McCrohan.

After their own research, Borough police were able to determine the bust was the work of Herbert Adams, and that Mr. Adams' father was a diplomat. A plate of the bust is included in Princeton Postcards of 1947 published by the Princeton University Press.

TWO SUSPECTS CHARGED

In Annex Restaurant. The two Trenton men have been charged with the entry and theft of between $1,000 and $1,400 from the Annex Restaurant, 128½ Nassau Street, on February 13.

Free on $2,000 bail to await a Borough court appearance this Wednesday is Edward D. Rodwell, 39. The second suspect is Donald R. Thomas, 31, is presently being held by the Hamilton Township police for breaking into a rug company in Hamilton on Sunday. Thomas has also been charged by State Police in connection with a robbery at the Flemington Motor Vehicle Inspection Station last month.

They have been charged by the Borough police with allegedly using a 30-foot nylon rope to climb down an exhaust fan shaft to enter the restaurant. More than $1,000 was taken from a safe that had been broken open and an undetermined amount from vending machines, police said. Also implicated in the theft, according to Borough Detective Robert McAlvenia, was Katherine Rodwell, 20, identified as a friend of Rodwell's. She was charged with possession of stolen property. Borough police said she had worked at the restaurant as a waitress until recently.

CAR FLIPS ON 266

Two Men Injured. Two men were injured, one seriously, when their small car went out of control on Route 266, 300 feet north of Bavard Lane, early Sunday morning and rolled over.

The passenger, James H. Tatum, 27, of Hightstown, N.J., was admitted to Princeton Hospital with a ruptured spleen, fractured vertebrae and contusions of the kidney. He was operated on at 2:30 Sunday afternoon and his condition is described as poor.

William E. Willinger, 25, 46 Spruce Street, received a fractured collar bone, fractured ankle, and multiple lacerations and contusions. He was admitted to the hospital—

Drugs in Princeton? 'Easy to Get -- But Such a Kid Thing to Do'

• With Princeton teens — even with fifth graders — mauling heroin is the big drug thing today.
• A lot of Princeton kids plant marijuana seeds and grow their own pot.
• How do you get drugs?
• At Princeton High, it's no problem: you know who the people are and you go find them.

• Until five years ago, the Mercer County Juvenile Court didn't have a single drug case, not even pot. Since 1965, there have been 200 cases.

• Parents cannot accept the real reason why a child is "dokey."

• "My daughters are at Princeton High; they never touch drugs and don't know anyone who does."

• With a lot of Princeton families, a call from the police is the first hard knowledge that confronts the parents.

The drug problem in Princeton is insistent, persistent. It just won't go away. Part of the problem is drug abuse itself, but a large part is the apathy and blindness of Princeton's adults. This is what emerged Wednesday from the Child Guidance meeting on drug abuse. An audience of 200 at the Princeton Inn listened to experts, each of whom described briefly, factually, his own particular experiences with Princeton kids on drugs.

It was Florence Burke, acting principal of Princeton High, who told the audience that parents simply cannot accept the fact of a child on drugs.

"A segment" of the PHS population is a drug problem, Miss Burke admitted. "It ranges from the kid you know is on drugs, to the one who wants you to think so. Usually there is no medical evidence."

Miss Burke said students were willing to discuss drug problems with a school adult on a private, one-to-one basis, and she warned "this confidence MUST be kept." Pupils do realize, however, that the school system's policy on drug abuse must be followed, she added.

"We try to get a kid on a team, working hard to physical training maybe, or absorbed in drama — any kind of involvement in a project."

Dr. Shirley Van Ferney, physician who treats disturbed children and is associated with Child Guidance, said she first encountered hard drugs about eight years ago in Princeton.

Then pot became the thing. She knows of pot-farmers in Princeton, cultivating their own marijuana supply.

But a "drastic change" in drug use came last spring, she told the audience she began hearing about, and teens mauling heroin.

Dr. Van Ferney attributed much of the boredom, to "a smorgasbord of things to do in Princeton," to fear of failure and desire for some excuse for not achieving in school.

She charged that adults may subconsciously support their kids, because "people want some miracle drug to relieve anxiety."

Thomas Proaccino, the Borough's Juvenile Officer, observed that the police telephone call was, for many Princeton parents, the first "hard knowledge" of what they might have suspected, but had pushed from their minds.

"At last, after the police call, the parents have reason to seek professional help — either for their child or themselves."

Youngsters themselves are often more realistic than their parents, Officer Proaccino said. "Ignorance of the law is never used by kids as an excuse. Faced with prosecution, the kids take it very well — and they NEVER squeal on anybody."

"These youngsters are violators of the law, and the law must be served," he stated. "I hope the community will understand this."

He added that Princeton's police are "choked" by the way Princeton's drug problem has accelerated.

Judge J. Wilson Noden of the Mercer County Juvenile Court, described the acceleration statistically: until 1965 he didn't have a single drug case, not even marijuana. Glue-sniffing peaked (59 cases) in '67-'68. Drug cases, chiefly pot, climbed to 70 in '68-'69, and the four-year total, 1965-'69, is 200 cases.

"We must treat the use of drugs as a symptom of another problem: lack of maturity to say 'no' or maybe family difficulties."

He pointed out that youngsters before the court don't necessarily need psychiatric help; perhaps only the help of a social agency.

The Juvenile Court has the advantage of not having to send your first-offenders to jail," he stated.

Hilda Wiletsky, running the new Child Guidance drug program, said three quarters of her youngsters were "heavily involved," chiefly with heroin, but at least one has never touched drugs, not even pot.

Teens are being referred to Child Guidance by street workers, churches, doctors and schools, and "four or five came in us because they'd heard about us from other kids — this is very encouraging."

She emphasized that the new program can't be run like a clinic. About one-third of those who come are just curious, and may or may not come back.

Child Guidance's chief clinical psychologist, Dr. Fraeese Seidman, said it was three years ago that she first encountered a teenager who admitted to smoking pot.

Dr. Seidman quoted teens who had taped their comments on drugs, and it was "a bright, outgoing, angry girl" who said obtaining drugs was "no problem; you know who the people are."

Other comments by teens on the tape:

"Most of my friends smoke pot. None of them drop acid (LSD) or are on heroin; they stopped . . . "You want to be like your friends, the way our parents drank when they were young, and still do . . . "older kids aren't doing it much anymore . . . they ought to spend their time on the pushers; they're the ones who are killing us . . . "It's such a kid thing to do . . . "

were taken by the Princeton
First Aid and Ambulance Squad.

According to the police report, Mr. Willender admitted he was going too fast around a curve at 5:40 in the morning.
His car started to skid. After leaving 160 feet of skid marks it started rolling over, coming to rest on the opposite side of the road. The car was demolished.

Both men were thrown from the car. Mr. Tatum was found lying on the edge of the roadway. Police said the driver was apparently able to reach the house at 196 Bayard Lane where a call for help was made.

Pd. David Funk issued a summons to Mr. Willender for failing to keep right.

"They sound like a chain saw," said one resident.
The Township has an anti-noise ordinance which says it's unlawful to make any
"loud, unnecessary or unusual noise" which disturbs your "comfort, repose, health, peace, or the safety of others." The ordinance includes a paragraph on discharging exhaust into the open air.

The maximum penalty is $300 or 90 days in jail or may be even both.

Trouble is, enforcement depends on making a complaint, probably against your neighbor, whose 13 year-old moans around all Sunday mornings on his bike and residents say they don't like to do this.

All they ask is, a little peace and quiet, please?

complainant.
Henry T. Page Jr., 20, of Trenton, was held for grand jury action after he pleaded not guilty to three charges and waived a preliminary hearing.
He has been charged by the Borough police with possession of stolen property and possession of alcohol in a car, and with trespassing by Matthew J.
Glinka, manager of the College Club, a university dining club.

Three youths charged with lying up two university students in their dormitory room last month and taking $43 from them were held for action by a grand jury.

Ossie Smith, 22, Extra Road,
Hightstown, and Carl Douglas,
21, of Trenton, were each sent to Mercer County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail. Chad Gould, 20, Extra Road, Hightstown, was held in jail in $5,000 bail. All have been charged by Sgt.
Theodore Lewis with robbery.

Township Court, A 19-year-old resident of Highway 27 paid three fines last week in Township Court.

Judge Burton Peskin fined Maurice E. Washington $15 each for having no license in his possession, late inspection and failure to observe a stop sign. He pleaded guilty to all three.

Passing a stopped school bus cost Angelo Provenzano, 19, 42 Carnahan Place, $15. Paying fines of $20 each were Robert T. Woodbridge, 59, 33 Springdale Road, and Elton C. Bryant, 21, 22 Clay Street, both for speeding; Philip L. Mather, 18, Hollow Road, Skillman, unlicensed driver; Susan M.
Bozic, 24, 123 Mercer Street, stop sign; and Jacquelin Summerfield, 17, 964 Princeton-

BUSINESS In Princeton

RESEARCH GROUP FORMED
By Peterson's Guides. The formation of the Peterson Research Group, a subsidiary that will offer publishing and consultative services to colleges and universities, has been announced by Peter W. Hegerer, President of Peterson's Guides, Charles M. Woolfolk, Jr., was named director of the new company.

The Peterson Research Group will assist higher educational institutions with the publication and distribution of catalogues, announcements, and other public information materials. The company will offer a full range of publishing services including content analysis, manuscript editing, proofreading, and creative design. It will also advise schools on effective methods of distributing program information to counselors and prospective applicants.

In making the announcement, Mr. Hegerer said that although the subsidiary would be autonomous, it would complement the works of Peterson's Guides, a Princeton-based (228 Alexander Street) publisher of educational reference books distributed free to student advisers and school libraries. The objective of Peterson's Guides, he said, is to provide student with as broad a perspective as possible, while the aim of the Research Group is to assist a college or university in communicating its unique educational opportunities to the interested student. Unless a school can effectively communicate its philosophy of education and projected programs, he added, it may witness a steady deterioration in the quality of applicants.

Mr. Woolfolk, director of the subsidiary, is a graduate of the University of the South (Sewanee) and Tulane University. He was an instructor at the West Virginia Institute of Technology in 1940-41. In 1942 he received an appointment to the Foreign Service of the U.S. Information Agency. He has held diplomatic positions in Ecuador and Chile. While serving as Assistant Cultural Attaché of the American Embassy in Santiago, he worked closely with international educational exchange programs.

NEW SERVICE ANNOUNCED
"G & R Feedback, Inc." A firm specializing in qualitative market research and educational research, "G & R Feedback, Inc." has been announced jointly by Jack J. Honomichi, president of Feedback, and Leroy E. Purvis, president of Gallup & Robinson, Inc., with which Feedback is affiliated.

"Decision makers, we think are looking for simple, lucid answers to their questions," Mr. Honomichi explained this week. "There is disenchantment with computerized and often sterile — compilations of statistics — Feedback's goal is to humanize research related to marketing and communications problems."

Mr. Purvis adds that "this philosophy — and specific services now being developed by Feedback's management — complement the services provided by G & R."

Michael P. Erdman

Mr. Honomichi is former publisher of The Analyst and has served as vice-president of Audits & Surveys, Inc. and Market Research Corporation of America. Headquarters for the new firm are in LaVake House, Research Park.

PICA EXPANSION SET
New Building Added. PICA Data Systems is the new name for Printing Industry Computer Associates, as the two-year-old firm adds its second computer center serving the graphic arts industry.

The new 6,000 square foot facility on Princeton Road at Princeton Junction was needed to meet increasing demand for two special services the company provides: ULTRA-X, a full-page software composition system using IBM 360 computers with cathode-ray tube output devices, and PMS, an information system which offers printers of all sizes the advantage of computerized business systems.

The new facility will employ about 40 programmers, analysts and computer professionals. An entirely new experimental CRT output device to be used will be announced shortly. The company's New York computer center, which was opened in July 1969, remains in full operation at 25 West 26th Street.

ERDMAN NAMED PARTNER

In Philadelphia Firm. Michael P. Erdman has been named a partner in Ewing Cole Erdman & Eubank, Philadelphia firm of architects, engineers and planners, formerly known as Alexander Ewing & Associates. He will continue to head the firm's branch office here, opened in 1966.

Mr. Erdman is a vice-president of the Central Chapter, New Jersey Society of Architects, a member of the American Institute of Architects and a registered architect in most of the mid-Atlantic states. He is a graduate of Princeton University and the University of Pennsylvania School of Fine Arts. He lives with his wife and two daughters at 25 Campbell Circle.

In addition to architectural design and structural, mechanical engineering, Ewing Cole Erdman & Eubank's service include urban and land planning, programming, systems building, interior design and landscape architecture. It also has a branch in Washington, D.C.

JOHNSON NAMED

To Hornblower Board. This lam B. Johnson, a registered representative in Hornblower & Weeks-Hornblower, Noyes' Trenton office, has been selected by the firm to serve on its 1970 Management Advisory Board.

The board's function is to counsel with senior management on ways in which Hornblower's service to clients may be continuously improved. Many suggestions of previous boards have now become policies or practices of the firm.

A graduate of Yale College, Mr. Johnson joined Hornblower in 1968. His home is at 34 Cleveland Lane.

PROMOTION ANNOUNCED

At Princeton Bank. William R. Osby, President of the Princeton Bank & Trust Company, has announced the promotion to assistant vice-president of John J. Davis. Mr. Davis has been designated as manager of the Hopewell Borough office.

Varied banking experience has characterized Mr. Davis' background. He was formerly with the Irving Trust Company, New York City, in the International Division. While named a partner in Ewing Cole Erdman & Eubank, Philadelphia firm of architects, engineers and planners, formerly known as Alexander Ewing & Associates. He will continue to head the firm's branch office here, opened in 1966.

Mr. Davis attended the New York University School of Finance and the American Institute of Banking. He and his wife, Sandra, and their young daughter, Patricia, live in Hillsborough Township.

DR. FALK TO SPEAK

On U.S. Failure in Vietnam. The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will sponsor a public talk by Dr. Richard A. Falk of Princeton in "American Leaving Failure in Vietnam," Friday, March 20, at 8:15 in the Witherspoon School auditorium, Walnut and Guyot streets.

The lecture will be followed by a question-and-answer period and there will be no admission charge.

Dr. Falk is a recognized authority on international law. In 1958 he traveled to North Vietnam to discuss possible peace moves between the United States and that country. He serves as research director for the World Law Fund's North American section project, "World Order Models."

At Princeton, Dr. Falk is Miller Professor of International Law and Practice, and he is a faculty associate in the Center of International Studies there.

LUTHERANS PLEDGE $300 To Ruth Fund, Dr. Arthur F. Wagner, chairman of the board of elders of Messiah Lutheran Church, has pledged $300 towards the street ministry of William N. Keith. The pledge, he told Princeton Rotary Club, will be paid in quarterly payments.

J. Barwell Harrison, president of the Rotary, said on Monday that an offer of housing on the Great Road has also been received. "If B. J. Keith accepts," he commented to TOWN Topics, "this very generous offer is equal to about $180."

The Lutheran diocese raises

OK For Drug Program

The new Child Guidance drug program has been approved by the state as a pilot demonstration project and even earned a bonus for possible expansion.

State approval opens the way for contributions from both Borough and Township governments. Attorney Gordon Griffin had questioned the propriety of municipal contributions to the project.

Richard Basso, chief of the state's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said that his bureau's study of the program in the Child Guidance Center would make it a good model for other areas. He said the state would not require private doctors have a license received.

Borough, Township and the United Fund have budgeted $10,000 for the program. City health department private doctors have a license received.

MUSIC In Princeton

SZYRNYG IS NEXT

In Concert Series, The violinist, Henryk Szernyng will be heard at McCosh Theatre next Monday at 8:30 as the fourth artist in Series I of the Princeton University Concerts. Tickets are available at the McCosh Theatre box office. Born Warsaw, now a citizen of Mexico, Szernyng early won fame throughout Europe. He has played under the baton of Bruno Walter, Leonard Bernstein, Paul Paray and Sir Malcolm Sargent.

A popular recording artist he was awarded the "Grand Prix du Disque" in 1953 for his recording of three Bach Sonatas, and three Partitas for violin alone. In 1957, for his recording of the Second Prokofiev Violin Concerto, in 1960 for the Brahms Concerto and in 1961 for the Beethoven Sonatas recorded with Artur Schnabel.

He is on the staff of the Mexican National University, and directs the Pan-American course in Advanced Violin Technique and Interpretation.

Mr. Szernyng's program in Princeton will be Sonatas in Bb Major, K 454 by Mozart; Partita No. 3 in D Minor (Solo Violin) by J. S. Bach; Sonata Breve by Manuel Ponce; "Danço de la Gitana" by Ernesto Halffter; Song of Roxane by Karol Szymanowski; "Moto Perpetuo" by Ottokar Novacek.

WOLF, COMPLETE

Italian Song Cycle, Hugo Wolf's complete song cycle, "Italienisches Liedebuch" will be sung next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in 10 McCosh on the University campus under the auspices of the department of music.

Tickets are available at the Woodworth Center concert office from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. weekdays (tel. 924-0453), and will be on sale at the door the evening of the concert. Seats are not reserved.

The concert, originally scheduled for February 23 and postponed because of a soloist's illness, will feature Shirley Sudock, mezzo-soprano, and Blake Stern, tenor. Wolf's "Italienisches Liedebuch" consists of songs, free-Continued on Next Page

Programming a Hit at McCarter

A Series II McCarter Theater audience witnessed an historic "first" on Monday night when the New York New Music Ensemble, under the direction of Richard Dufallo, presented a program of contemporary music. With the exception of "The Unanswered Question" by Charles Ives, (the music that opened the program), all the compositions represented music composed during the last ten years.

In addition to the Ives piece were Yannis Xenakis's electronic taped score, "Orient Occident"; Three Madrigals by George Crumb, based on the poems of Garcia Lorca; "Eternity II" by Earle Brown, a work based on "chance" or aleatory principles; and "Szyggy" by David Del Tredici. Phyllis Bryn Julson, soprano, was the soloist for the Crumb Madrigals and Mr. Del Tredici's "Szyggy" based on two poems of James Joyce, "The Puer" and "Nightpieces."

The Ives work is a classic and needs no further comment here. It suffered in performance from a very small body of strings — just a string quartet was used instead of the usual small orchestral string section. Still the music received an effective reading. The electronic taped score of the Greek composer Xenakis had in interesting moments, but as a whole, the music seemed a repetition of the best of Varese and others who have explored this medium.

Hearing George Crumb's Three Madrigals, it was difficult to imagine the composer as the recipient of a Pulitzer Prize. The music was ultra-mannered with overdone effects that served no esthetic purpose for this listener, at least. The music, which was scored for soprano, voice, vibraphone and double bass, was well performed, but uninteresting for the most part.

No Lack of Variety, Earle Brown's "Event: Eternity II," a composition based on the principles of "chance" and improvisational techniques, somehow worked very well in this performance. The contrapuntal effects by the larger ensemble were quite exhilarating at times and the music did not wait for lack of variety.

What makes the music so effective is the fine idiomatic writing Mr. Brown has achieved for the various instruments. The music at times appeared highly complex, but always listenable and, for the most part, held the attention.

The final work presented, David Del Tredici's "Szyggy," was by far the most impressive score of the more recent work on the program. The music, composed for a large mixed ensemble, including vibraphone, solo soprano and solo horn, was given a stunning reading with all the interesting sonorities and combinations of timbres beautifully brought forth.

The music, a two-movement work based on the aforementioned poems of James Joyce, lasts about a half hour, and it is quite a credit to the young composer's musical gift that he was able to weld a complex series of effects, episodes and colors into so rewarding a musical event. One would rather that Mr. Del Tredici has a complete command of his musical craft and at the same time knows how to express a line in a genuinely artistic way.

His music is well organized and seldom tedious with respect to the use of certain types of effects. His handling of the voice was quite attractive and Miss Julson's performance was exquisitely wrought.

As a concert, the idea of an evening of new contemporary music at McCarter is not only worthwhile, but vital. Maida Pollack and the Princeton University Concerts Committee deserve much praise for undertaking so important an achievement.

Sony's Answer for the Mike-Shy Executive:

The New Model 80

It's strictly business with the Sony Model 80 AC/DC cassette tape recorder! All business because no one ever sees the built-in condenser microphone. And that means no one ever gets self-conscious or mike-shy. Operation is never a problem either, because Sonymatic recording control gives you perfect recordings automatically—every time. In the office, you can dictate with both hands free. In the conference room, you get a complete record of every word, including the slightest whisper, thanks to the built-in condenser mike—the most sensitive you can get. Use Sony's C-120 tape cassette and get up to two hours' recording time. If your meetings run longer, the Model 80's alarm audibly signals you to change cassettes. Add to all this convenience the Model 80's handsome black exterior, and you have an attractive addition to any office or conference room. Come in and see this remarkable business machine today. It's new from Sony/Superscope and it means business! Only $99.50.

Friedrich of Mont-Cornet.
The next Friday Night Chamber Music concert will be presented by the Friends of Music at Princeton this Friday at 8:30 p.m., at the Woolworth Center on the University Campus. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Artists will be pianist Michael Schub, a freshman, and baritone Todd Fandler, graduate student. Mr. Schub began his piano studies with his mother at the age of 4, attended the Juilliard Preparatory School, and spent several summers studying with Nadia Boulanger in France. Darius Mihalanc in Aspen and Jeanne Marie in Nice.

He performed a Liszt concerto with the American Symphony in Carnegie Hall in 1969 and that year won the Young Artists Award of the National Federation of Music Clubs. He also won first prize in 1968 in the WQXR Piano Contest. At present Mr. Schub is studying with Jascha Zayde. On Friday night he will perform Beethoven's Sonata in C Major, Opus 33 and "Carnaval," Opus 9 by Schumann.

Todd Fandler is a graduate student in physics. As an undergraduate he studied voice with Clayton Halvorsen at Wheaton College, Illinois, where he was also the commencement soloist. He is currently studying with Shirlee Emmons and will be the soloist with the Chapel Choir this Sunday morning. For his Friday night concert, Mr. Fandler will sing the "Dietrichlieder," Opus 18 by Schumann. His accompanist will be David Abramo vitz '70.

BAULETTERS BENEFIT
For Trip to Canada, Finland
A trip to Toronto and Finland for the Bauletters benefit concert scheduled for April 5 by the Princeton Ballet Society. Proceeds will help send members to the Northeast Regional Ballet Festival, which is holding its 11th annual session in that Canadian city.

The concert at Princeton Day School auditorium will feature violinist Geoffrey Michaels and a piano duo by Patricia Michaels and Shirley Batchelor. A reception after the 3:30 concert will be open to patrons and members of the Princeton Regional Ballet Company. Mr. Peter Schreiber is chairman of the event.

The violinist was a member of the Curtis String Quartet for five years, through 1969, and he was among the prize-winners at the June International Concert for Violinists in Montreal. Last summer he appeared in performances at the Marlboro Music Festival.

Shirley Batchelor of State Road is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, and has studied piano with Carl Friedberg and Edward Steuermann. She is an assistant professor of music at Trenton State College. Patricia Michaels has been soloist in chamber music groups and as an accompanist in the Philadelphia area since 1965.

ANNUAL CONCERT SET
By PHS Orchestra. Two student ensembles will be featured on the program by the Princeton High School Orchestra at its annual concert in the John Witherspoon School auditorium next Wednesday, March 18. Matthew Neuburg, a junior, and a pupil of Jayne Scheuermann will play the Rondo movement from the Mozart Flute Concerto in G with the Orchestra, while the soloist in the 2nd Concerto in B flat for Piano and Orchestra by Beethoven will be Joshua Raifer, a freshman, and a pupil of Mathilde McKinley.

The Strings of the Orchestra will open the program with the 3rd Brandenburg Concerto of Bach. The full orchestra will be heard in the first movement of the Mozart G minor Symphony No. 40 and in a contemporary composition, Festival Overture, by Emma Lou Diener, one of the more prolific composers writing for today's youth orchestras.

The concert at 8 p.m. is under the direction of Sylvan Friedman and open to the public. Contributions at the door will aid the school drive, prevention of air and water pollution.

KODALY WORK CHOSEN
For Amateurs' Reading, Kodaly's "Te Deum" will be the program for the Society of Musical Amateurs, Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Unitarian Church on Cherry Hill Road. Soloists for this sixth meeting of the season will be Jeanne Thomas, soprano; Mary Kemp, alto; Albert Jansson, tenor and Clyde Tibot, bass.

Those musically interested are invited to attend and oar participate with the singular members, they should contact Mrs. M. B. Gendrich at 921-1213 in advance. There is a small charge for non members, to cover cost of music and refreshments. Any one wishing to join the society may do so at the door Sunday afternoon.

FRESHMEN SING SUNDAY
In Joint Concert, The Princeton Freshmen Glee Club will combine forces with the Smith College Freshman Choir, "O. mega," for a joint concert Sunday afternoon at 3 in Alexander Hall on the University campus.

Tickets to the program are $1.00 for students and $2.00 for adults; the works to be sung are "Wachet Auf," (Cantata 140) by J. S. Bach, and "Festival Te Deum," by Benjamin Britten. The Smith Choir is under the direction of Larry Doeber, and the Princeton voices are directed by William Trego.

ORGANIST TO PLAY
In Seminary Concert, Peter A. Brown, organist, will give the 1:30 recital Thursday in Miller Chapel of Princeton Theological Seminary. Mr. Brown is currently completing his final year at Curtis Institute, where he won a three-year scholarship as an artist pupil of Dr. Alexander McCurdy.

Between 1967 and 1969 his schooling was interrupted by Army Service, and he was stationed at West Point as Post Chapel organist and choralmaster. Mr. Brown is now the organist-choralmaster for St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Exton, Pennsylvania, and director of music at the Church Farm School, Glen Loch.

SCHULTZ TO BE SUNG
In Choir Service Sunday, The Princeton University Chapel Choir will give a special musical service Sunday in the Chapel at 11. Two works by Heinrich Schütz will be heard.

Among the Seven Woods of Curtis and Father Abraham, Have Mercy.

The soloists will be Karla Johnson, soprano; Lynn Jackson, soprano; Emily Kleen, alto; Michael Carlsan, tenor; Todd Fandler, tenor; Philo Kitcher, bass; and Janet Quinn, organist. Both works will have instrumental accompaniment.

BOOKS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS
Bryn Mawr Sale Planned.
Plans are well under way for the 36th annual Bryn Mawr Book Sale April 22-25 in the Borough Hall Gymnasium. Proceeds help Princeton area girls meet the costs of attending Bryn Mawr. The Alumnae Club is currently aiding live girls in this manner.
Donations of used books are earnestly solicited for the sale; all contributions will be picked up by volunteers. Volumes given for sale are tax-deductible, so donations need not be entirely philanthropic. Call 924-9337 to make arrangements.

Folk Music Society: another informal concert program at 8:30 p.m., Friday at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, featuring Paul Schoenfelder, a traditional banjo and blues guitar man. The concerts have proven very popular, and in view of the limited capacity of the building (100 seats), those planning to attend should arrive early. Admission is 50 cents for members, $1 for guests. Use Quarry Street entrance, and bring instruments for a post-concert music session.

Association of Retired Persons: Thursday at 2 in the Dorchester House, on John Street, "Scenes from Afghanistan" will be presented by Miss Dorothy Wagner, followed by the social hour.

National Association of Accountants: Wednesday, March 18, at the Nassau Inn to hear John L. McLahan speak on "Controlling Insurance Costs." Mr. McLahan is president of Exemplar-McLahan, Inc. The Hospitality Hour begins at 5:30, dinner at 6:30. Prospective members are welcome.

The Woman's Club of Princeton: annual Club Day is Thursday, March 19 at 1:30, at the Sherry Club on River Road. Tea will be served following the program.

Mrs. Ralph S. Holmes, vice president in charge of departments, has announced that the meeting will open with a special collect reading by Mrs. Joseph S. Thomas, a past president and now fourth district literature chairman, and by Mrs. William F. Voorhees, Jr., also a past president, and a member of the literature department. After the collect, the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag will be led by Mrs. Gerald Lockyer, civics and legislation chairman.

Original articles will be read by members of the creative writing department including Mrs. Roger Willock, Mrs. Joseph S. Thomas, Mrs. Norman D. Kelley, Mrs. Charles E. Graf, and Mrs. Charles M. Burrill, chairman.

Mrs. Walter Gloger will introduce members of the drama department in solo performances as follows: Mrs. Ivan Monk in an excerpt from Kaufman and Hart's "George Washington on Slept Here"; Mrs. Charles C. Foder, from Victor Wilson's play "Exposure"; Mrs. Charles W. Maglier, from Kaufman and Perber's "Dinner at Eight"; and Mrs. Allen W. Bartley, reading an essay, "How to Cook a Ham-bone." The selections were chosen by Mrs. F. Leichter Cuthbert, chairman of the drama department.

Closing the program will be "Sounds of Music," prepared by Mrs. Joel B. Johnson, chairman of the music department.

Women's College Club of Princeton: evening meeting Monday at 8 in the All Saints Chapel, on Van Dyke Road. Dr. Paul S. Svensson, professor of journalism at Temple University, N.Y., will address the meeting on "The Changing Nature of Journalism." Husbands and guests are welcome.

Professor Svensson has a rich background in the field, as a former editor of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, as executive director of the newspaper fund for the Wall Street Journal, as the author of many publications on journalism, and as a speaker to professional groups nationwide.

Children of the American Revolution: New Jersey State Society: annual State Conference Saturday at 11:30 at the Princeton Inn. Mrs. Frank A. Rechtf of Princeton, senior state president, will call the conference to order and introduce Miss Marilyn Brownell, state president from Marlton, who will preside at the business meeting to be held following the luncheon.

Reports and exhibits in the afternoon will cover many of the objects and purposes of the C.A.R., and the year's projects. These include American music and literature, American Indian schools, mountain schools, correct use of the flag, conservation, patriotic education, and the appreciation and preservation of historic places. Saturday evening the C.A.R. members will join their sponsoring D.A.R. and S.A.R. organizations at the "Colonial Ball," also to be held at the Princeton Inn.

Princeton Community Homemaker Service: annual meeting Tuesday evening at 8 in the First Presbyterian Church. Speaker Jaes Weining of the Social Security Administration will speak on recent SSA program changes. Highlights will include the yearly awards for service, with honors in the form of a silver dish to Mrs. Dorothy Richardson of Trenton for 10,000 hours of service; Mrs. Eileen Durling of Princeton and Mrs. Lillian Meyer of Cranbury will each receive a ten-year bar pin.

The slate of officers to be elected for 1970 includes, for president, Mrs. Charles Healy; vice-president, Mrs. Ellwood Godfrey; secretary, Mrs. Thomas Huntington; treasurer, Orville Dwy. New board members will be Mrs. Richard Glan, Mrs. Gerald Herzog, Mrs. W. B. Mather and Mrs. Frank Soda.

The Homemaker Service, a member agency of the United Community Fund, last year gave 49,000 hours of service to more than 150 families in the Princeton area where there was serious illness.

Senior Citizens' Club: Lawlence Township, noon, Tuesday, at American Legion Headquarters. A St. Patrick's Day celebration has been planned, including the singing of selected Irish songs by Sister Kathleen of St. Ann's Parish and native songs and dancing by Miss Margaret MacMahon. Refreshments will be served.

Hightstown Registered Nurses Assoc.: 8 p.m., Tuesday, Old York Inn. Dr. Gerald O'Brien, a resident of Princeton and a specialist in allergies, will speak on "Allergies and Acute Allergic Reactions."

YMCA Outing Club will hold a skating party from 6 to 8, Friday at the Princeton Day School rink.

BRAWN FOR BRYN MAWR: Packing and transporting cartons of books is part of the job in arranging the annual sale which raises scholarship funds for girls at Bryn Mawr. At work here are Mrs. Frank Reeder, Mrs. James Crimmins and Mrs. Joseph Wilder, assisted by Susan Wilder. Mrs. Crimmins and Mrs. Wilder are co-chairmen of the sale, to be held April 22-25 in the Borough Hall gymnasium. Contributions of books may be made by calling 924-9237.

Rock! Rhythm! (and Eensy-weensy Spider)

*On top of spaghetti!
All covered with cheese,
I lost my poor marshall
When somebody sneezed...*

Teaching the classical her-itage to the young is only one thing Mrs. Eugene Tay-lor does during her toddlers music sessions at the YW-CA.

Lithe, supple — you know she's a dancer before she tells you — Christine Taylor has 46 four and five-year-olds in seven classes of this music workshop. A class meets twice a week, which is probably why Mrs. Taylor is so slim.

Body movement, panto-mime, singing, instruments, mathematics (mathemat-ics?) and philosophy (philosophy?) are all part of any workshop period. But each class is different, each group of youngsters has its own very firm ideas.

"The sessions are to be fun for the children, and I let them determine the way things are going to go," says Mrs. Taylor. "At first I asked them to bring their favorite records, but they didn't seem to care much about the ones that were brought in. So I brought 'Sly and the Family Stone' and they loved it! Rock and roll, rhythm and blues — these are fa-vorites with everybody now."

Somebody asked one day what "rhythm" was.

"Well, you all know num-

bers. And you all know how a conductor stands in front of a big orchestra" (yes, they did know about conduc-tors. Television, maybe?)

Mrs. Taylor then told the children they were an or-chestra, and asked if they could count while they "played" — that is, listened to the mus-ic.

And they did! I told them about odd and even numbers and soon they discovered that 2-4-6-8 would fit "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" with nothing left over. Then they discovered that 1-2-3 fit a waltz with nothing left over.

Somebody, of course, wanted to count in nines...

That was the mathematics session. Philosophy? "What does 'image' mean?" one that was asked.

"Well, music makes you feel a certain way," replied Christine Taylor, and they talked for a while about that.

Instruments play a big part in dance and panto-mime. Kazoos ("hey! they're different colors!") are sim-ple horns you hum into and thereby make a tune... drums, of course... and one boy brought rattles made of juice cans filled with un-cooked macaroni.

"It only makes music, it doesn't make the songs I want it to make!" protested one boy, peering into old-fashioned wax shepherd's pipes.

In several classes, boys and girls make up their own songs, and sometimes they put the songs on tape for parents to hear.

"The mouse is in the house! mother's on the chair! in her underwear! she scared the mouse to death — to the tune of 'The Farmer in the Dell,'" was one ex-periment in extemporiza-tion.

The bounce and cheer of the toddlers ("Kiss baby")

You Don't Need Money

Parents who would like to have their toddlers attend Christine Taylor's music classes, but do not have enough money, should get in touch with the YWCA (924-4825) and ask about scholarships.

Transportation can be ar-ranged, and even re-sched-uling. Mothers who call should ask for Mary Young or Christine Taylor.

spider?" Oh, I sang that when I was LITTLE!" sometimes has its darker side.

Mrs. Taylor recalls the day they wanted to play school. "You see Mrs. Taylor," they informed Mrs. Taylor, "you have to be MEAN. And the teacher must stay in jail..."

"These are three and four-year-olds without any school experience," Mrs. Taylor still shudders slightly at the memory. "Where did they get such an idea?"

That's not the way they feel about Mrs. Taylor, of course. "They all feel very friendly toward each other and toward me, and want to do things together," the teacher says.

If a toddler doesn't happen to want to do things togeth-er that day, he can sit quietly and watch. But eventual-ly, he comes into the group and begins to sing or dance, too. How can you sit, silent, to "Yellow Submarine?"

A Club Méditerranée Resort Village is an unusually casual place. There's no such thing as last names and a bathing suit can be your whole wardrobe.

Here, virtually everything (but a drink at the bar) is free.

Spearfishing, tennis, sailing, 3 feasts a day by master French chefs, all the wine you can drink at these feasts, nightly entertainment—all free.

In fact, you can't even tip anyone.

The cost is slight. For instance: One week, fully all inclusive with round trip jet air fare via Air France, at Martinique (French West Indies) —

$322. from New York

PEOPLE In The News

Walter F. Fullam, 44 Westcott Road, has been elected to the board of directors of Zeus Industrial Products in Hartford. The company manufactures a line of Teflon tubing for electronic, medical, chemical and general industrial use. Mr. Fullam is secretary-treasurer of Princeton Technical Products, which he helped found, and he was also a founder of General Devices, Inc., and Princeton Paint Laboratories. Besides his business interests, Mr. Fullam is a trustee of Old Sturbridge Village.

Two Princeton residents have been named to the Dean's List at their respective colleges. Sharon Gregg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Greza, 34 Madison Street, attends the University of Miami. She is a senior majoring in elementary education. Susan L.
Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Peters, Canal Road, attends Beaver College. A sophomore, Miss Peters is also majoring in elementary education. As a freshman she received the Chemical Robber Cup. Freshman Chemistry Achievement award.

Vincent P. Moravec, 134 Le-brook Lane has been manager of community relations for the Buffalo district operations of Bethlehem Steel Corporation. He will move to Buffalo with his family in the near future. Mr. Moravec has been the company's New York representative in industrial public relations for the last 11 years.

His new duties will include community and public relations at Niagara Frontier, upstate New York, and Lackawanna, where the company allocates the world's fourth largest steel plant.

A native of West Bridgewater, Pa., Mr. Moravec obtained his MBA from Harvard Business School in 1930, after an undergraduate career that was split between Lehigh and Harvard by a World War II hitch in the Navy. He completed the sinking of the USS Lansdale, and returned to captain Harvard's 1917 football team.

Fred Gilman, 15 Burning Tree Lane, Lawrence Township, has been appointed vice-president of Market Research for the Hospital Research and Educational Trust of New Jersey. Mr. Gilman will work with existing and new group programs for hospitals. Before joining Hospital Research, he was director of Hospital Service for New Jersey with the National Case Register Co.

Thomas D. Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto T. Olsen, Canal Road, has been promoted to the rank of specialist fifth class at U.S. Army ASCOM Depot, Buynong, Korea. He serves as an equipment management specialist and aide to the commanding officer of that installation. A graduate of Princeton High School and Wagner College, he is due to return to this country in the spring.

The following students from this area have been named to the Honor Roll at the Hun School for the third marking period: Robert Bueso, Lawrence Carnevale, Alan Chaloux, Thomas Chanok, Lowell Clark, Richard Cytowic, Todd Faus, Lawrence Gilman, Michael Guadagno, Charles Henry, Chris Jones, David Keefe, and Alan Levine.

Also, David, Kenneth and Peter Ludlum, Roderic Mc-Goughlin, Alan Mesler, Robert Moore, Arthur O'Connor, Mark O'Shaughnessy, Robert
Otway, Michael Seward, John Soderman, Carl Thomsen,
Mark Ward, Dirk Whitehead and Peter Worthington.

Herb Schapiro of 18 Herro-town Circle has done the writing for a dramatization of
"The Me Nobody Knows," which will open Off-Broadway on May 11. The idea for adapting the best-selling collection of essays and poems by ghetto children came to Mr. Schapiro while he was working last summer in a Theatre "Theater-in-the-Streets" program.

Taking the book (which was edited by Stephen M. Joseph, a schoolteacher in New York City) as raw material, adding music by composer Gary Friedman, and production and direction by Jeff Britton and Robert H. Livingston, Mr.
Schapiro has hopes of presenting "a day in the life of the ghetto," complete with its dreams, hopes and night mares.

Mr. Schapiro is presently developing a theater program at Mercer County Community College. He has another play to his credit before this: his
"Kill the One-Eyed Man" was produced at Provincetown, Mass., last year.

Richard W. Baker III, has been nominated for promotion to Class 5 in the United States Foreign Service. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Baker Jr., One Atmore Road, he joined the service in 1967 after receiving his Master's degree from the Woodrow Wilson School here.

His assignment for two years has been in Singapore, where he is assigned to the Department of State as the staff assistant to U. Alexis Johnson, Under Secretary for Political Affairs.

R. Z. Kamich, American and research editor of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry (TAPPI), Mr. Kamich will become chairman of information retrieval in 1971. Educated at Harvard and M.I.T., he specializes in Soviet scientific and technical literature and is active in Slavic language circles in the U. S. and Canada.

Navy Petty Officer Second Class David T. Sands is serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea in the Western Pacific. The ship recently completed its second line period in the Tonkin Gulf while serving in its fifth consecutive tour of duty in support of Allied forces in Vietnam. Petty Officer Sands is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Sands of 9 Rumford Way, Princeton Junction.

During the fall semester, five area students made the dean's list at Rider College. They are Lee R. Atchison of 242 Washington Road, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Krueger of 401A Devereux Avenue, John G. Kelly of 56 North Sarnsworth Drive, David A. Shahada of 40 Piney Branch Road, Cranbury, and Ronald L. Stawicki of 2200 Mountain Road, Belle Mead.

Alice Artzt, daughter of Mrs. Maurice G. Artzt, 51 Hawthorne Avenue, and the late Mr. Artzt, the young American classic guitarist, has been selected as one of the four finalists in the International Classic Guitar Competition 1970 sponsored by the French National Radio Television.

She will compete in the finals in Paris next October. This competition has been held annually since 1950, and the former winners include many of the world's most renowned and gifted guitarists, though as yet no American has won.

A student of Julian Bream, Ida Presti and Alexandre Lagoya, Miss Artzt has already enjoyed an extensive concert career. As a soloist, she has performed in the United States, Canada, and Europe, and has played with chamber groups and with orchestra. In February, 1969, she toured England and Wales and made her London debut at Wigmore Hall.

Such was her success, that she was invited back for an extended European tour in October and November 1969, with concerts in England, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Austria, and Italy, including a series of concerts under the auspices of the United States Information Service.

Miss Artzt is performing in the United States this Spring, and plans a tour of South America in June.

paigining in the upcoming 1970 and 1972 elections.

The study will scrutinize the use of mass media for campaigning, and will reach all the way from the Presidential to municipal races.

The Citizens' Research Foundation is a non-partisan organization that has specialized in this type of research since 1938. Its director, Dr. Herbert E. Alexander of Clover Lane, is a former director of the Presidential Commission on Campaign Costs.

He has also published many studies on public reporting of campaign money, tax incentives for campaign contributions, and the financing of the elections in 1964.

Specific areas to be covered by the new research will be the financing of the 1972 presidential campaign, the newspaper advertising costs of the 1970 congressional election campaigns, and studies of state and local campaign costs. The researchers will also expand their educational programs and hold seminars on the problems of political broadcasting.

The grant to Citizens' Research was among some $3 million in grants announced this week by the Ford Foundation in New York. Also included was a $100,000 grant to Columbia University for research on voter participation in the electoral process, with emphasis on why citizens do not vote.

SCOUTS PLAN SHOW

On Conservation. "What can I do to stop pollution?" will be a major theme of the scout anti-pollution show that is coming soon to Pennington. Explorer Post 44 members have planned exhibits, films and guest speakers for the two-day show in the Timberlane School. Hours will be from 10 on Saturday, March 21, and 1 to 6 on Sunday, March 22.

"Chackwaggon food" will be available throughout the show hours, according to John Costa, president of Post 44 and a Junior at Hopewell Valley Regional School.

"In the beginning we hoped for a good show, but now we know it is going to be more than that," he said.

Several other Scout units will be at the show. The George Washington council will be helping Post 44 organize the show, which was delayed to expand its scope.

Reprints of recent topical conservation articles from leading magazines will be available for visitors to take home. Explorer Costs points out that the show is intended to be educational, and visitors will learn what role they can have in reducing pollution in New Jersey.

Tickets for the "Adventures in Conservation" show will go on sale March 7. They will be made available to the 126 scout units in the regional council. Several group reductions are available for schools and to organizations that purchase 50 or more.

MOMMIE PAINTS

Daddy, Too! Six children at John Witherspoon School can paint with pride through Friday, March 20.

Art by the parents of these six students will be on display in the main hall of the school, and is open to the public between 8:30 and 4 daily.

Then, there's Renee Levine, whose canvas "Knights and Kings" is lively and colorful. Trudy Glucksberg, who uses black and white to enhance the colors in "Mentional Day," and — quite at home in the tripartite — a father, T. H. Frelinghuysen, who has lent "Waldo," a two and one-half foot long Bassett hound carved from wood.

INDIANS TO PARLAY

At Princeton University. A four-day convocation to discuss the goals and challenges of American Indians will be held March 23 through 26 at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Representing many tribes from all parts of the United States, Mexico, Canada and America, the assembly of distinguished Indian writers, artists, scholars and educators will discuss matters ranging from preservation of the cultural heritage in the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

Dr. Alfonso A. Ortiz will chair the meeting, the first such gathering in American Indian history. Dr. Ortiz, an assistant professor of anthropology at Princeton and a member of the Tewa tribe on the Southwest, views the convocation as an opportunity to demonstrate "that we are not the marmoset mopes about whom so much benevolent concern has been voiced in the past."

"Quite simply, we wish to inform modern America that there are significant numbers of Indians who combine lines of scholarship or personal accomplishment with activism in the cause of Indian advancement, and that we should be permitted to take the lead in matters affecting our people's welfare and future."

Among those scheduled to attend are Pulitzer Prize winner N. Scott Momaday, Vine Deloria Jr., author of "Gatherer of Stories," and others.

WRESTLING TITLE WON

As Tigers Whip Cornell, Tied, 6-6, after the first four matches, Princeton's wrestling team gave up only a draw in the last six bouts Saturday to trounce Cornell, 25 to 8. The victory gave Coach Johnny Johnston's team the Ivy League championship and a fine 12-1 record.

Lehigh was the only team to defeat the Tigers, while Franklin and Marshall earned a tie. Among Ivy opponents, Princeton rolled up 150 points while yielding 56 and only Columbia reached double figures at 28 in the well-balanced champions.

As has been the case virtually all season, the heavier the weight of the contestants, the more matches the Tigers won. Cornell had taken the 118 and 142-lb. bouts to offer victories by Steve Garner and Al Uyeda in the early going, but when Jake Feldmiller of the Tigers recorded a decision in the 156-lb. class, Princeton was never headed again.

Captain Tom Potts beat his 158-lb. opponent easily, 7 to 1, before Cornell earned its final two points via a tie in the 167-lb. bout. The Tigers then added two more one-sided decisions credited to Ted Madden at 177 and football guard Emil Deliere at 191 before heavyweight Chuck Dressell pinned his man at 247 of the second period.

The eastern intercollegiate will take place Friday and Saturday at Penn State. Fifth a year ago, Princeton has hopes of improving its showing there this weekend.

PENN UPSET BY NIAGARA

Ivy Champions Frozen Out, you can't protect a one-point lead in basketball by shooting 26% in the second half. Ahead by as much as 9 in the early going, Pennsylvania's Ivy League champions found Calvin Murphy and Niagara more than they could handle Saturday night in Jadwin Gym, when the final 20 minutes turned their dreams of NCAA heroics into dust.

With a capacity crowd of 7,500 sitting in on the proceedings, the tide began to turn in the last five minutes of the first period, when the Quakers appeared in control of the action with a 31-22 lead. By the time the horn signalled the intermission, Niagara had connected for a dozen points to Penn's four, and trailed by only 33-31.

A free throw ten seconds in to the final round tied the score, and a layup less than half a minute later sent the visitors ahead for good. Their lead was 11 points (39-48) with ten minutes to go, and they maintained their momentum to the finish.

Penn lost because its guards, Dave Wohl and Steve Blaksy, had to take too many shots over the Niagara zone to get 33 points between them, and because the shorter New Yorkers out-rebounded the Quaker big man. In addition, the losers' 6-8 forwards, Bob Morse and Jim Wolf, could produce only 18 points between them on a combined shooting percentage of 24%.

Murphy in Charge. The 5-10 Calvin Murphy had a few problems in the first half as Wohl's good guarding held him to 12 points, but he found the range for 23 more in the decisive second round. More importantly, he consistently hit the open man with fine passing and when Niagara wanted a slow down to protect its lead, it was Murphy who dominated the dribbling.

Penn had other troubles beside its shooting and rebounding. The Quakers couldn't handle a fast break and were guilty of too many turnovers to keep their own offense in motion.

Coach Dick Harter's Ivy

champions had come into the game with a 25-1 record and 18 consecutive victories, impressive enough to earn them seventh place in the national rankings. Since their next opponent would have been Villanova, which they had beaten earlier, and highly-regarded South Carolina was an upset victim in the Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs, it seemed possible they might have gone on to the national finals. North Carolina State and St. Bonaventure are the other two teams in the eastern regional finals which begin Thursday.

All that must now wait until next year, when the Quakers are likely to get another shot at NCAA action because their starting team returns intact. For Princeton fans, however, it was revealing that the Quakers could be made to look so bad once their big men were in trouble.

Unbeaten Freshmen Unlikely to Bring Tigers Instant Ivy Title

How much will the undefeated Princeton freshman basketball team do to improve the Tigers' chances of winning the Ivy League title in its first year of varsity play? Ever since the Class of 1973 began bowling over the December opposition in a tough 17-game schedule, the traditional cry of "Wait 'til next year" has been growing in intensity. As Coach Art Hyland's operatives came down the stretch, eventually completing the first perfect season for a freshman quintet since the winter of 1956-57, there were open warnings to Penn that its reign at the top of the Ivy heap would not last beyond March of 1971.

However, a realistic look at Princeton's fortunes indicates that the best the Tigers can logically hope for is to move up one berth in the Ivy standings by winning what may be a three or four-way race for runner-up honors next season. In so doing, they would inevitably improve on this year's 9-5 mark which was good for a two-game lead over fourth-place Dartmouth and Yale.

It is quite unlikely that Pennsylvania's young squad, now 25-2 on the season and seventh-ranked nationally before being upset here by Niagara, will fall victim to "senioritis." All five starters return next year, the upcoming freshmen are as good as the few reserves whose careers end, and Penn's lone-starved rosters aren't about to find a blase, over-confident team playing for their next winter.

No Contest. Best indication that the current crop of Princeton freshmen will have their hands full in Ivy competition is the fact that they couldn't come close to ending the current Tiger varsity. When the two teams met on the court, none of the big men could stay with John Hummer, and Jeff Petrie was far too much for the freshman guards. It is, accordingly, quite unlikely that any of the crop of newcomers will fill the gap left by the two Tiger stars—certainly not in their first year on the varsity. Not only did the two graduating seniors average close to 18 points apiece in league action but their defensive ability as seniors was far greater than varsity newcomers are likely to be able to contribute to a team's all-around warfare.

The achievements of the freshman quintet have nonetheless been considerable, and at least one long-time observer of the sport here thinks that "next winter, the varsity outfit to consist of the four best sophomores and Bill Sickerle." The opinion is probably no exception to the varsity's varsity experience can often outweigh a sophomore's potential—but this year's starting sophomores, Reg Bird and Bob Ryder, will indeed have a battle on their hands to keep their place in the starting lineup.

Coach Pete Carril's greatest strength next winter will be in the backcourt, particularly if 6-2 Brian Taylor stays there. That would give the Tigers four players of considerable ability: Bird, a junior, Taylor and two other sophomores, Ted Manakas and Jim Sullivan.

Two with Extreme Ability. Taylor and Manakas are undoubtedly the best pair of guards ever to matriculate at Princeton in the same class. Taylor, the more eye-catching of the two, scored 486 points to set a freshman record here, although his 28.6 average was below Bill Bradley's 30.1. Taylor played a 17-game schedule compared to Bradley's 18.

Despite the fact that Taylor by no means always saw 40 minutes of action because a number of the games were so one-sided, he topped 30 points eight times, hitting a game high of 39. He has a fine outside shot, but it was his moves and his fakes under the basket that had Jadwin Gym fans delighted with what they saw. He is adept at close-to stealing, but, in common with freshmen everywhere, his overall defensive play needs constant honing.

It was largely Manakas who kept the freshmen from being a one-man ball team. Averaging 17.5 points, he complemented Taylor beautifully in bringing the ball down court, setting the offense in motion and melting zone defenses with fine outside shooting. When a stall was needed to preserve a slim lead, his dribbling and ball-handling were virtual perfection.

Up front, Hyland had two relatively big men in 6-8 Bill Daake and Bill Kapler, as well as 6-5 Billy Joe Jackson. Daake was the third man on the team in double figures with a 14.8 average but Kapler's rebounding was impressive and he was more adept on defense. One of them will almost certainly beat out varsity holdovers of comparable height for Hummer's job.

The Schedule Was Tough. Offensively, the freshmen averaged 76 points a game, but showed their defensive problems by allowing their opponents 68. They made it into three figures on two occasions, against Rider and Yale.

Best indicator of their ability was the toughness of the schedule, not only were most of the top eastern independents defeated but ten of the 17 victories were recorded on the road. During one stretch of two full months, they played nine straight games away from home, so that returning to Jadwin was almost as if they were on another unfamiliar court.

In addition to a pair of victories each over Penn and Columbia, the Class of 1973 defeated seven opponents from such colleges as Temple, Villanova, Manhattan, NYU, Army, Fordham and Rutgers. The freshman quintet at Rutgers was unusually good, and when the young Tigers put their 13-game winning streak on the line there, New Brunswick fans jammed the gym to capacity while hundreds of cars were turned away. It was a 76-72 final, Manakas scoring 31 points for his season's high and Taylor adding 27.

These two seem sure starters next year, along with the dependable Bill Sickerle, a sho-in for next year's captaincy. With juniors Bird and Ryder and sophomores Daake and Kapler all strong possibilities for the remainder, two berths, the Tigers will clearly be building for the future.

The longer-range thinking sees Penn losing some of its strength and balance when the Class of 1971 graduates, with the Tigers holding over virtually all of theirs and conceivably picking up another few better than average group of freshmen next semester. Reports have three top-flight New Jersey schoolboys heading this way—among them Andy Rimol of Mountain Lakes, between whose height and seven feet on the bar there is no daylight.

BOROUGH TOWNSHIP

Township Five Buses, 39-35, Township throughout the game until the final few minutes. Borough police defeated the Township police basketball team for the second straight year Friday, 39-35.

The two local departments clashed in a March of Dimes Tournament held at Notre Dame High School which featured three contests among six Mercer County police departments. The Borough defeated the Township in the same tournament last year, 34-29.

In the Borough-Township game, one of sports' horniest axioms — a good big man will beat a good small man — was tested. In this case, two small men beat two big men because, essentially, the game was a battle between 5'11 Tom Michaud and 5'8 Robert Mucciarelli of the Borough and 6'6 Dave Cromwell and 6'3 Jerry Offredo of the Township.

Between them, Michaud and Mucciarelli scored 38 of the Borough's 39 points. Michaud, who played for Stiermeyer High School in 1939 and '60, scored a game-high 22 and kept the Township off balance when it appeared that the Township might pull too far ahead to be caught. Michaud snatched victory away from the Township and was named the game's most valuable player.

able player. He played for get in the first quarter. In the second, Michaud's basket and four free throws by Mucciarelli were all the Borough could muster. They missed eight from the foul line and were obviously spurring.

The Township, on the other hand, was using its superior height under the boards with success. As Cromwell spunked underneath, Offredo hit with a pair of long jumpers in the Early Lead for Township. Cromwell and Offredo accounted for all but eight of the Township's points. Cromwell hitting for 16. His eight points in the first period staked the Township to a 10-3 lead, a margin it was to maintain until the last period.

Most of Offredo's 16 points were pretty outside jumpers. He and Mucciarelli were the only two to score in every period.

Jim Bloor's foul shot in the third period was the lone point not accounted for by Michaud or Mucciarelli. For the Township, Joe Mazotas had four points, Mike Kopfinger two and Frank Buccinasso, one. Victor Fasanella, Ron Holliday and Dave Alison made up the rest of the Borough's six-man squad. Alison, a half-inch over six feet, was its tallest member.

Others on the Township squad who played were Mario Musso, Al Funk, John Hammond and Dave Wilbur.

The Final Period. The fourth quarter began with the Township on top, 27-20, and Cromwell's layup upset the margin to 29-20. Then Michaud, who had been held to six points but who was having no success at all on the foul line, started to find the range. Two baskets, back-to-back, narrowed the gap to 29-24.

After Cromwell scored again underneath for the Township, Mucciarelli came back with driving layup and Michaud hit a long jumper to make it 31-28. With three minutes to go, Mucciarelli engineered the play that turned the game around.

A superb ball handler, Mucciarelli drove in and attempted an underhand layup that started a few inches off the floor. The ball arched straight up, some six feet above the basket. It fell straight down and in for two points. It also brought a rain of approval from the small crowd. Fouled on the play, Mucciarelli converted to tie the score at 31-31. With 1:31 remaining, Offredo put the Township out in front again but another bucket by Mucciarelli decided the game. Township Take Lead. Mucciarelli opened the scoring with a layup on a nice feed by Michaud. He was fouled on the play but those three points were all the Borough was left with.

second period, and Mike Konlmer's long shot from the side at the end of the half gave the Township a 17-9 edge.

There was no intermission. Two baskets each by Offredo and Cromwell and one by Mazotas accounted for the Township's 10 points in the third period. Mucciarelli continued to display his instinct for the hoop by scoring six more points in the third period, two on driving layups, to keep the Borough's hopes alive. The Borough's final four points, however, in the third period were scored by Michaud; apparently, he had found the range.

The sudden reversal which brought defeat shocked the Township and the players filed dejectedly into the locker room. After pointing to the 12

Youth Movement Sparks Lawrenceville Hockey

What began as a mediocre season for the Lawrenceville School varsity hockey team ended with a first place finish in the Wisconsin Tournament and a fine 157 record, the best in the school's history.

The reason for this strong comeback is chiefly due to a large reshuffling of personnel, which saw many of the older players on the squad yield first and second line positions to a remarkably young group of present starters, half of whom are freshmen.

This "youth group" was it of its last 15 games and set several school records in the process including, the highest number of team goals scored in one season, and the best winning percentage.

Including two sets of brothers, Bill and Randy Koch of Princeton, and Bruce and Scott Quackenbush of Rocky Hill, sons of Bill Quackenbush, varsity hockey coach at Princeton, the Lawrenceville squad, the youngest "average-age" team in the school's history, has many players that have come up through the area's Pee-Wee hockey programs.

Lawrenceville's captain, Chris Sowers, is from Princeton, as is reserve defenseman, Bruce Willard. Forwards, Chris Broadwater, Mark Cleary and Jack Cubertson, all of Lawrence Township, made important contributions to the team. Seven of these boys will return next year.

In the Washington Turney, Lawrenceville had an easy first-round victory over Cranford, 8-0, on Friday. Moving into the second round it met the Hershey Junior Bears, winners over a strong Hill Squad in overtime. The Larrises captured this bruising contest in overtime on a winning tally by Bill Koch assisted by his brother, Randy.

Moving into the final contest for the championship, Lawrenceville met a first-up Wisashickon team, conquerors of Princeton Day, playing on its home ice.

Bill Koch gave Lawrenceville a 1-0 lead in the first period, but just 18 seconds after Wisashickon tied the score in the second period, he put his team ahead to stay on an assist from Bruce Quackenbush. The losers tried desperately to tie it again, but Sowers gave the Larrises an insurance goal, and a 3-1 triumph.

Bill Koch set an individual record with the highest number of goals scored by one player during a season.

tious called against the Township in the second half to the boy for the Borough (the result of the Borough's superior ball handling, which drew the fouls, rather than uneven officiating). Cromwell added, "Oh well, you can't win them all."

Trouble is, when you play only one game a year, it's tough to lose. As long as Mucciarelli and McDonald are on the Borough squad, the only hope for the Township lies in consolidation.

KEITH WARD FIRST

In 18-mile Bike Race, Fifteen year old Keith Ward won Century Road Club's third race in its winter championship series Sunday when he covered the 18 mile course Rocky Hill to East Millstone and back—in 55 minutes.

He finished almost five minutes ahead of Jay Caras who was clocked in 59:27. Dan Hawley, 61:50, was third. In all, eight riders finished the race.

Next in the series is a circuit event Sunday at Neshanic.

Fy Flying Fish Swimmers. Four members of the YMCA Flying Fish team, all 10 years old, won four gold medals and one silver among them competing in AAU meets during the weekend.

IC4-A Track Meet May Come to Jadinwin

Picturesque Jadinwin Gymnasium, which last weekend played host to its first NCAA basketball game, may be the site next March of the 50th annual indoor IC4-A track meet. A nationwide affair from point of view of participants (5-6,000), it has for many years been held in Madison Square Garden.

Coaches at the 70 colleges involved voted as far back as last May to ask their athletic directors to make the move. Asa S. Bushnell, co-director of the meet, told a track writers' luncheon in New York this week that Jadinwin's facilities are far superior to the Garden's and indicated that a switch to Princeton will be given "Very serious consideration."

R. Kenneth Fairman, Princeton's Director of Athletics, said it will be a matter of several weeks before a decision is reached here on the availability of Jadinwin for the immediate future. He pointed out that such a move out of the Garden would be relatively permanent, and that IC4-A officials would want the same site for some years.

We'll have to correlate such a move with commitments to our own winter sports schedules," Fairman said. "We are not about to push our basketball team around in deference to track, and the dates and time of day for staging the meet will require our approval."

IC4-A officials are interested in holding the indoor meet on Saturday and Sunday (as opposed to Saturday afternoon and evening in New York). They feel that a good portion of Jadinwin's 6,200 seats (for track) could be sold for such an event, but are also interested in exploring the possibilities of television.

Despite its recent arrival on the athletic scene, Madison Square Garden's track facilities are markedly inferior to Jadinwin's. In New York, there are only four lanes on the oval, severely limiting the number of finalists in numerous events, whereas Jadinwin has six. The Garden's infield straightaway has six lanes, Jadinwin has a down.

No final decision will be reached until May, both Fairman and Bushnell have indicated.

posted his best time — 39.1 seconds. At the NYAC meet, Bob O'Hara captured the boys' 10 and under 50-yard freestyle in 29.0. Also, New York, Carol Wagner won the girls' 10 and under 50-yard breaststroke in 39.5. She won a silver medal for her time of 31.2 in the 50-yard freestyle.

BOWLING NOTES

Ed Duncan Rolfs 262, Ed Duncun of Farr Hardware at the A League rolled a 262 for a high single game last week at the Princeton Recreation Lanes.

Three fashioned 600 series. Claude Pinelli, rolled 100-225, 191-597; Don Snyder, 215-175, 216-696; and Charlie Barto (lani, 205-167-232-692. Jim Tamasi had 231-399, and Tony Tamasi 212-205. Both roll for Tamasi Plumbing.

Bill Cavanaugh claimed 233, and John Scialoja, 200. Others: John Baldino, 218; Vince Tullano, 217; Jerry Pempela, 214; Bud Fowler, 211; Bill Barclay, 205; Marc Jacob, 204; Paul DeMogio, 203; and Bob Cefelli, 204.

Andler's and Stefanelli are tied for second place, 35-35, two points behind the leader, Princeton Inn. Ivy Inn and Princeton Inn are tied for third place, 31-31, and Princeton Inn have 31 to share third place.

Norm Luck, Dick Traetzer and Mike Koellner rolled the top three single games in the Tri-County Firemen's League — 215, 214, and 222 respectively Saturday at the Princeton Y. Paul Tereski had 229, Ben Poul and on Sunday at the Princeton Y. Paul Tereski had 229, Ben Poul and on Sunday at the Princeton Y.

IC4-A Track Meet May Come to Jadinwin

Picturesque Jadinwin Gymnasium, which last weekend played host to its first NCAA basketball game, may be the site next March of the 50th annual indoor IC4-A track meet. A nationwide affair from point of view of participants (5-6,000), it has for many years been held in Madison Square Garden.

Coaches at the 70 colleges involved voted as far back as last May to ask their athletic directors to make the move. Asa S. Bushnell, co-director of the meet, told a track writers' luncheon in New York this week that Jadinwin's facilities are far superior to the Garden's and indicated that a switch to Princeton will be given "Very serious consideration."

R. Kenneth Fairman, Princeton's Director of Athletics, said it will be a matter of several weeks before a decision is reached here on the availability of Jadinwin for the immediate future. He pointed out that such a move out of the Garden would be relatively permanent, and that IC4-A officials would want the same site for some years.

We'll have to correlate such a move with commitments to our own winter sports schedules," Fairman said. "We are not about to push our basketball team around in deference to track, and the dates and time of day for staging the meet will require our approval."

Peratoni, George Luck and Bob Micnicki. No. 11's gained a 28-28 tie with Lawrenceville for the lead, while No. 1 is second with 26. Rocky Hill and Plainsboro each have 21.

Jim Case of Harrison Athletic Club spilled the most pins last week, rolling a 639 series in the Nassau League on games of 225-232-212.

Mike Pinelli of first-place Tiger Garage sandwiched a 188 between 208-212 for 693, while teammates Al Hickey and Tom DeMogio had 693.

TWO CHARGED FOR DRUGS
One Arrested on Campus, An 18-year-old youth and a 20-year-old former Princeton University student have been charged with narcotic violations by Borough police.

James M. Groling, 18, of 44 Pine Place, turned himself in to police, after they had searched his apartment Friday afternoon. Armed with a search warrant, Lt. Michael Carnevale and P.D. Timothy Hauling allegedly found heroin, a hypodermic needle and prescription drugs in the youth's apartment.

He was released after his $3,000 bail was posted by a bondsman. He will appear in Borough court March 18 to answer the charges of drug possession.

Victor S. Harris, 20, was picked up at 4:15 Saturday afternoon at Stanhope Hall on the Princeton campus by Sgt. John J. Bellone and P.D. John Markusen. He had been enrolled at the University until recently, residing at 11 Gayler Hall, police said, but had been asked to leave the university. He has been charged with possession of narcotics to await a court hearing on the 18th. He was released from jail after posting $500 bail.

Chief Peter J. McGrohan said police found a "sizeable amount" of narcotics when they searched his room in Cupler Hall. He said they found tubes of hashish and bags of raw marijuana. "At least we think it is hashish," he said. "We haven't had it analyzed yet."

The charge against Harris was made by P.D. Hauling. He and Carnevale were the two Borough officers who worked on the case, Chief McGrohan said.

JUDGE REDUCES CHARGE
Against Johnson's Nephew. Because they had good records and a "promising future," charges of breaking and entry and larceny against two Princeton University students, one of them a nephew of former President Lyndon Johnson, were reduced last week by Mercer County Judge Samuel D. Lenox Jr.

Philip C. Bobbitt, 22, of Austin Texas, son of Mr. Johnson's sister, Rebecca, and Gregory Treverton of Denver, Colo. were each fined $1,000 each on a lesser count of being disorderly persons. The two could have been sentenced to five years in prison and fined $3,000 under the original charge.

They were apprehended last April by Borough Police as they walked out of Community Wine and Liquors on Witherspoon Street with two suitcases filled with 42 bottles valued at $328. They had thrown a cedar block through the door of the shop to gain entrance.

Merced County prosecutor Vincent Panaro explained that "you could win a conviction would be more onerous to one individual than to another."

"Reducing charges is a matter of 'discretion,' Mr. Panaro noted. Both had "extensive school records" and were "intoxicated" during the burglary, he said.

"Normally, intoxication is no excuse for a crime," Mr. Panaro said. "But it was more of a lack than anything. Neither man intended to use the stolen liquors 'for personal gain,'" he added. "Both are affluent people. It wasn't for money."

Mr. Treverton, who graduated from the University last June, is scheduled to enter the Peace Corps, and he could not do so until the charges were dropped against him, Mr. Panaro pointed out.

TALKS ON DRUGS PLANNED
For Littlebrook Parents. A series of four coffee hours at which parents and children at the Littlebrook School will hear discussions on the drug problem has been scheduled for this spring.

The first will be held next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elms, 107 Meadowbrook Drive. Those who live in the area are invited.

Littlebrook is the first elementary school in Princeton to have a program for parents. At the instigation of Lloyd Taylor, it has been arranged. In his words, "to explore ways in which parents can work to avoid problems in their own homes."

Speakers at Tuesday's meeting will be P.D. Thomas Procasino, the Borough's juvenile officer, and Mrs. Hilda Garde Waleysky, a social worker for the Drug Abuse program and the Child Guidance Center.

LION'S SALE IS ON
Lion Fertilizer Offered. Fertilizer just in time for spring gardening will be delivered March 21 to area residents who order through members of the West Windsor Lion's Club.

The Lions are holding their annual fundraising sale through March 19, handling a full line of a nationally-known brand of lawn and garden products. All items are sold at fair-trade prices.

Proceeds of the sale will help support the West Windsor Lion's community services, including youth programs, civic improvement projects and health and welfare activities. For information, call chairman Ken Holaday at 799-1269.

HERBERT MARCUSE HERE
For Spencer Trask Lectures. Herbert Marcuse, the controversial philosopher whose critiques of contemporary society have become best sellers on university campuses around the world, will speak on "The Cultural Revolution in the West," in a two-part lecture series at Princeton University Monday and Wednesday. The talks will be open free to the public in Alexander Hall at 8:30 both nights.

Educated in his native Germany, the 37-year-old philosopher arrived in this country in 1931, and has spent most of his time teaching on college campuses; for eight years at Columbia, nine years at Brandeis, and shorter stints at Yale, Harvard and the University of California. The New York Times has written of him, "In terms of day-to-day effect, Herbert Marcuse may be the most important philosopher alive." His published works include "One-Dimensional Man," which made him a hero of the New Left, and earlier examinations of the influence of Hegel, Marx and Freud.

The two lectures this week comprise the Spencer Trask Lectures at Princeton in 1970. These were instituted in 1901 by Spencer Trask of the Class

News Of The CHURCHES

TO PRESENT "MESSIAH"

On Passion Sunday, Mrs. Mary Krimmel will direct the six-voice adult choir of First Presbyterian Church in the second section of Handel's "Messiah" at the 11 a.m. service this Sunday.

The choir will be augmented by Anna Royer at the organ and a string quartet under the direction of Joseph Kovacs. Soloists are Charlene Weiskel, soprano; Nancy Dodson, alto; Warren Dodson, tenor; and Edward Fox, bass. During Advent the choir presented "The Christmas Story" of Handel's great oratorio.

Part the second, the Lenten Season, sets the stage for Passion Week.

Choir members include Helen Dodson, Claire Caylor, Marion LaBar, Barbara Lamb, Nancy Nelson, Kristin Schumann, Christine Switten and Charlene Weiskel, soprano; Joan Angevine, Harriet Art, Harriet Blizard, Barbara Brown, Joy Connors, Nancy Dodson, Peg Hastings, Suzanne Hoderby, Carol Lewis, Carol Lord, Ann Raffalli, Anna Royer, Rosemary Fox, Alice Vail and Margaret Williams, alto;

James Clapp, Warren Dodson, James Dodson, Bruce LaBar, and Arthur Toppel, tenors; James Amick, Larry Smith, Henry Brown, John Clemens, Edward Fox, Harry Gayley, Ernest Johnson, George McCausland, Theodore Vial and Stephen Weiskel, basses.

Louise Gross, writing in the church publication, "First Notes": "In the 1970 performance at First Church, director Mary Krimmel continues several innovations introduced last season. The Lenten portion of 'Messiah' begins with the great chorus, 'Behold the Lamb of God,' and usually climaxes 45 minutes later with the chorus 'Hallelujah Chorus, Last Year Mrs. Krimmel chose to end instead with the final 'Amen' Chorus with which 'Messiah' usually closes, feeling that the uplift of the 'Hallelujah' should be reserved for Easter itself or for it was this Christmas! No Advent."

The 1970 performance also will include the new, never-performed chorus, "The Lord Gave the Word," preceded by a lesser-known tenor solo with which Mrs. Krimmel will end and from which the title of the new tenor duet, "O Death Where Is Thy Sting?"

LEAVING: The Rev. Elliot A. Daley, associate minister of First Presbyterian Church, departed on March 31 to join Small World Enterprises, Pittsburgh, where he will write for the children's television program "Misterogers Neighborhood." Award winner, He will also write church school curriculum from the show, as well as television specials for children, designed to help them in times of stress. The Rev. Rogers of the show is also a Presbyterian minister.

Mr. Updike was an elder and former trustee of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, a member of the late Emma and Benjamin Updike.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ella Stout Updike; two sons, Edgar S. of Lawrence Township and Raymond F. of Lawrenceville; one daughter, Mrs. Maurice A. Mather of Princeton; one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Stout of Trenton; eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The service was held in the Mather Funeral Home, 1000 N. R. Hugh L. Johnson of Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in Highland Cemetery, Hopewell.

Mrs. Edith F. Metcalfe, 55, of Gold Soil Road, died March 8 at the home of her son, Robert W. Metcalfe of Ewing Township. She was the widow of Charles C. Metcalfe, a resident for 27 years. Mrs. Metcalfe was a member of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church and the Women's Association of the church. She was a former Sunday School teacher at the church and at Rose Dale Chapel.

She is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. John M. Kings of Montclair, Calif., and Miss Elsie M. Metcalfe of Farmville; a sister, Mrs. Alice DeMatose of Natick; a brother, William Metcalfe.

Funeral arrangements will be made by the Rev. Dr. Hugh L. Johnson of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

WE HAVING BEEN SOLICITING DWELLING LISTINGS AS YOU KNOW, OVER THE LAST FEW WEEKS. Our supply of homes had reached a dangerous low. The ads up to date, have brought forth the "word" of 4 properties, 3 of which have already been sold. We need more. So if you have a house to sell, please tell us. An odd result of the campaign, has been that we have been presented with several excellent commercial listings. They are real good opportunities. The situation reminds one of the "sales of diamonds" theme. Opportunity is at your feet! READ THIS AND THINK! A MODERN HOTEL WITH A TAVERN LICENSE IN ONE OF THE NICE LITTLE TOWNS NEAR PRINCETON.

can be developed in this location. A substantial investment is required. Details on formal inquiry. ANOTHER SEE VIEW OF A BUSY NESS! LUNCHEONETTE, DELICATESSEN, ICE CREAM PARLOR AND PAPER STORE. The building has a spacious 3 bedroom apartment for living quarters or rental. A place for a family that works to really make it. Full details available on inquiry. LAND FOR SALE 38 acres plus of rugged mountain land. Majestic trees. A good piece of property to buy and hold for $150,000. JOHN D. GUINNESS, Real Estate Broker, 2 West Broad Street, Hopewell, N.J. 466-1724

"THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING..."

You'll probably feel like singing too, when you see this bright and immaculately maintained "family" house in Riverside! Birds abound because of the many shade trees and evergreens. Spring-flowering hollies, dogwood, prize holly trees make the property very extraordinary.

A wide entrance hall, step-down living room, formal dining room, carpeted modern kitchen, smashing 14' x 27' family room with fireplace and floor-to-ceiling sliding glass doors. Three bedrooms and 2 baths off a contemporary-type balcony arrangement. The fourth bedroom and bath is on the garden level making it ideal for guests. Two car garage and enormous basement (bone dry). Ideally priced at $69,500.

THE NESTING INSTINCT

Spring is the time to let yourself go, indulge your creative talents and build your own dream house. We have two lots in a marvelous convenient Borough location with all public utilities connected. One slopes to a brook and is priced at $18,500, the other, on slightly higher elevation, is ready to go at $18,500.

TOMORROW MAY BE TOO LATE

Someone will very quickly realize the value of this tidy western section property and it will be gone! For under $65,000 we can offer a superb lot, well screened and planted, just over the Borough line, a living room, separate dining room opening to screened-in porch, a family room, 4 bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths.

TENNIS ANYONE?

An elegant colonial split-level-a very pretty wooded lot bordered by a stream-a private paddle tennis court-all bappily available for early summer occupancy. Perfect Township location (the little ones walk to Littlebrook) and marvelous for family living. Entrance hall, living room with bay window, formal dining room opening to large screened porch and lovely brick patio. Great big kitchen with many cabinets. Master suite has its own private study-dressing room for the "Master" and adjoining tiled bath. Three more large bedrooms and bath separated from the groupings. Stunning family room with fireplace for more informal entertaining. Truly a house with everything!

Stony Brook

40 Miles to Phila.

Here are the remains of Worth's (or Bruere's) Mill, dating from 1715, which ceased operation only in the beginning of the twentieth century. The highway was formerly at meadow level and the massive masonry of the mill wall seemed impervious to time, but the raising of the road and the use of the west wall as a retaining wall weakened the whole structure. The mill links modern Princeton with the earliest settlers of the region, deriving its name from John Worth, a Quaker who came to Stony Brook in 1636 and bought the property on which the mill was erected. His descendants kept it in the family until well after the middle of the nineteenth century, when it became the property of the late Joseph H. Bruere, who, as the motherless nephew of Mrs. Josiah Worth, had lived in the homestead across the bridge from the time he was an infant. He died there in 1908. The house, known as "Bruere Hillside" was built in 1913 as the successor to the first Worth homestead which stood on the crest of the hill and was destroyed by fire. In rebuilding, the site was chosen lower down the hill and closer to a remarkable well."

"notes on site area from Princeton Past and Present by V. Lansing Collings 1937, 1945 - Pr. Univ. Press. (The tablet is on what is left of the mill wall down by the bridge).

YOU'RE BREAKING MY HEART!
Be it today or tomorrow, your heart will succumb to this very special home. On a beautifully landscaped acre in Rocky Hill, this property has been developed in absolutely superb taste. A 2 story Colonial that has an air of elegance and a contemporary flavor, makes the offering of this lovely home a real pleasure. Featuring a brick fireplace wall arrangement practically worth the price of the property in itself and many other items such as a raised living room and beamed ceiling family room. There are also 4 large bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, spacious kitchen, separate dining room, brick floored center hall, basement, and 2 car garage. A real heart breaker. $36,800

FINE DESIGN MAKES THE DIFFERENCE between this, and other colonial houses of comparable size. Renowned Princeton architect, Rolf Bauhaus's touches are everywhere from the proportions of the exterior to the handmade paneling of a fireplace wall, and the result is an air of elegance and authenticity. From an unusual two level entrance hall, there are two steps up to living room and library, each with fireplace and rich detail. The dining room is flooded with sunlight from a wide bank of windows facing south as is the cheerful kitchen. There's a big laundry-mud room for the children and a powder room. On the second floor, there's a master bedroom with 4 closets and bath, plus three twin bedrooms and another bath. Paneled playroom with fireplace. Over two wooded acres with fenced and filtered swimming pool. In a most attractive Princeton Township setting. Offered for the first time, $92,000

18th CENTURY TOWN HOUSE WITH A COUNTRY AIR

On a quiet street in the center of a nearby village has nearly two acres with wonderful old trees and an all-weather tennis court. Inside, all is perfection. There's a wide center hall, flanked by formal living and dining rooms, one with fireplace, both with honey-colored wide pine floors; large comfortable informal living room with fireplace and adjoining full bath; cozy, country kitchen with plenty of space for breakfast table and chairs and, in a modern, high-ceilinged wing apart, a master suite of bedroom, dressing room and bath. To complete the ground floor, there's an enormous heated, glass walled sun room which doubles as children's playroom, music room and ball room. Upstairs, are 4 single bedrooms, 1 large double and full bath. Attic, basement and garage for all kinds of storage. Offered for the first time at $75,000.

... AND ANOTHER ANTIQUE-CONNOISSEUR'S DREAM

In nearby Griggstown, just minutes from here and with a Princeton address. On a shaded acre overlooking the picturesque Delaware and Raritan Canal, this big house has much personality and line detail. If you understand old houses and itch for a project to sink your teeth into, this is an unusual opportunity. Asking $65,500.

NOTICE TO CLASSIFIED ADVERTISERS

Beginning in March, the initial billing charge for an advertisement on those pages will be 50 cents, which the advertiser may avoid by paying for the ad within six days after the date of the issue. Thereafter, the billing charge will be 25 cents monthly.

The high cost of bookkeeping and mailing repeated bills makes such a policy necessary. Billing charges are not made to contract advertisers.

THE GOOD LIFE!

Some people really know how to enjoy it! Private paddle tennis with friends on your own court adjacent to your lovely five bedroom house on your beautiful wooded lot. The large entrance hall opens into spacious, well lighted living room, then on to the handsome formal dining room with its door to big screened porch and expansive brick terrace. The kitchen is totally modern and most attractive. The family room is large enough for an army and has a great fireplace! The fifth bedroom connects with the master in case you desire a luxurious suite — see it! A tremendous value in the low 70's.

WOW!

Sensational is the word for an outstanding and distinctive Princeton town house. Stone flared entrance hall separates elegant formal living (with fireplace) and dining rooms — the breakfast room — family room — kitchen complex is separate with beamed ceiling, door to garden and pretty bay windows — four large bedrooms and a separate laundry — all for only low $80's

FOUR LOVELY BEAUTIFUL ACRES

Ask us for a perfect setting and we will suggest this property with its swimming pool, pony barn and cozy but big country house — the "brick and browns" house has huge informal living-dining room and second living room (both with fireplace), three bedrooms, two full baths, a library and much, much more to see! $75,000

A GREAT FAMILY

house is available immediately — entrance hall, handsome living and dining rooms — add a thoroughly modern kitchen and attractive family room with fireplace — 4 bedrooms 2½ baths — West Windsor. $45,500
